REPUBLICAN COUNTY CONVENTION

The delegates to the Republican County Convention who were elected on Saturday, August 22d, will meet in Reynold's Hall, on TUESDAY, OCTOBER 6th,

at 2 o'clock P. M., for the purpose of nominating a ticket to be supported at the ensuing November election.

D. H. HASTINGS,
Chair'n Rep. Co. Con.

POLITICAL NOTES.

—Freedom didn't shriek much when Poland fell.—Paterson Guardian.

—The assassins of the national credit: the Democratic repudiationists.

—The Reporter says Simon S. Wolf was a Union soldier. Would it not be just as consistant to say that S. T. Shugert was a union rebel.

—Meek was so anxious to defeat Samuel Gilliland for the nomination for Legislature, that he sacrificed his friend W. K. Alexander in doing it.

—Dr. T. J. Boyer, of Clearfield, has published a card, in which, while maintaining the opinion that he could be nominated and elected to the Assembly, he withdraws for the sake of harmony in the Democratic ranks.

—The Atlanta Constitution has come out square for the Republican ticket. It says: "Let Georgians arouse and band together in one united body against the party that tramples law and justice alike into the ground."

—The Reporter says that Simon S. Wolf smelt powder during the war, and has great apprehension that he will be defeated in consequencee. Now suppose for a change that the Reporter tells us what Col. Shugert smelt during that same period.

—Judge Gilmore, the Democratic candidate for the Supreme Court of Ohio, is not only charged with habitual drunkenness, but with having altered the record in his Court so as to secure the release of a Democratic office holder who had embezzled $100,000 from the county. Thus bad begins and worse remains behind.

—The Rochester Chronicle suggest that it is now about time for the Democratic papers to show their withering contempt for Grant by spelling his name with a little g; but as these papers are all now engaged in spelling "negro" with two g 's, their limited fonts will not hold out if they also attack Grant in the manner proposed.

—The Republicans of Ohio opened their campaign by resolving that the intemperance of a public officer was the proper subject of an adequate legal puishment. The Democrats of that state immediately responded by nominating an habitual drunkard for a place on the Supreme bench. The people will have but little difficulty in deciding that issue.

—The Independent wing of the Democracy of Clearfield county met at Clearfield on the 8th inst., and nominated the following ticket: Assembly, J. W. Potter; Prothonotary, Samuel Kuntz; Register and Recorder, Frank K. Smith: Commissioner, Anthony Hile; Auditor, James Thompson. Jacob A. Faust, of Clearfield, was elected Chairman of the County Committee.

—The Buffalo Commercial makes a prediction to the effect that the succeeding fall elections will witness a great Republican revival, showing that the good old party was never in better condition, and that the people were never more earnest in their opposition to Democracy than now. Democratic newspapers will no doubt sneer at the prophecy, but just wait and see if it does not prove to be true.

—To the World, which sees no reason why the President should interfere to save life at the South, we commend the verdict of the Newark Register, a Democratic organ, which most patriotically exclaims: "Who calls the Republican party's war-time politics out of date? The stalest of that party's cries becomes eloquent in the presence of the riddled bodies of those six citizens of the Republic murdered for opinion's sake."

THE DIFFERENCE.

It is seldom that the essential difference between the aims and principles of the two great political parties can be found better exemplified than in the contrasted appeal and facts that follow. The Fort Smith, Arkansas, "New Era" keeps the appended appeal standing at the head of its editorial page:

FOR THE MEMBERS OF THE CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION NOW IN SESSION.—"It is cheaper to educate than to keep our prisons full.

The State owes an education to every child within its border. To accomplish this, education must be made compulsory and the success of the school system put beyond the interference of any corrupt officials. Currency only should be taken for school taxes.

Educate, and you will make the people virtuous, intelligent and prosperous. All evils will then right themselves.

To insure the maintenance of a good system of public schools is your chief duty."

The convention to which this appeal is made is almost entirely composed of Democrats, elected under the peculiar conditions of the Brooks-Baxter imbroglio. Their action on the school question, among others, is stated by a correspondent of the New York "Herald" under date Little Rock, August 18th. The writer speaking of the convention's course says:

"They have passed four legislative ordinances. * * * The first ordinance suspends the present registration law of the State; the second, in view of probable repudiation enjoins the land commissioners from receiving any more levee bonds in payment for State lands; the third * * prohibits the auditor from further issuance of State scrip; the fourth reduces the clerical force of the various State departments and the pay of the clerks, 'and appropriates the greenback common school fund to pay the expenses of running the incidental expenses of the convention.' Many of the members were in favor of 'appropriating' their own pay also. This unwarrantable attempt to appropriate a sacred fund has called forth a protest, addressed to the convention by the Secretary of State, who is one of the trustees of the fund."

How very clearly this serves as an illustration of Democratic victory and its consequences. Everywhere the sacred right of education is tampered with, and the guarantees of the common school system are deliberately broken down. The Democracy act up to the axiomatic sentence of Lord Brougham—"Ignorance may make men slaves, but education, Never!" The Democracy desire to enslave the colored laborer, not by re-establishing a chattel system, but by making him a civic pariah—an industrial and social serf—deliberately dedicated to ignorance and set apart for such marked inferiority as unequal laws and social oppression can preserve and increase. Republicanism, on the other hand, seeks to so legislate and govern that the humbled human being shall be protected in the same rights, civic and personal, that belong to the richest, the most gifted, and the most powerful. It forces no personal and social equality, but opens to all by all proper means every public way for such advancement as will increase the public and personal value of each member of the community. "By their fruits shall we know them."

—The Luzerne county Democratic Convention, which met at Scranton on the 8th inst., was a disorderly body, and free fights and resultant bloody noses were marked features in its proceedings. It got to be so unruly that the Chairman, Dr. Trimmer, left the chair, and the room, first declaring the Convention adjourned, to meet at Wilkesbarre on Tuesday next. A wag visited the green-room of the theatre where the meeting was held, and procuring a "stuffed paddy," placed it in the chair. It didn't last long, as the mob seized and tore it to pieces. After bawling themselves hoarse, and getting their fill of fisticuffing, the harmonious delegates declared the Convention adjourned until nine o'clock on Wednesday morning.

JUSTICE F. TEMPLE.

Justice F. Temple, the Democratic nominee for Auditor General, is such an entire stranger to the masses of that party, that it may not be amiss to introduce him to his brethren in this county. This we do by publishing the following from a letter from an old citizen of Green county, to the Pittsburg Dispatch: "This evening I have been reading your account of the recent Democratic Convention, and especially relative to Mr. Temple, candidate for Auditor General, with considerable interest. I regret, and I am not alone, that your representations of Mr. Temple are not in strict accordance with the facts. True, Mr. Temple practices law, but all who are best qualified to speak know Mr. Temple is no lawyer. He never read law, and practices only by the courtesy of some of his political friends. His entire practice for years to come, judging by the past, would not defray the probable expenses of securing his nomination. All his knowledge of the law came from his being Clerk of the Courts and Prothonotary.

"Nor," as you say, has he been an "active worker," unless I except his active opposition to temperance movements, and by no prominent member of his party here is he "credited with much of the success of his party."

"His nomination was as unexpected by the 'unterrified' here as would be the announcement of his election." Mr. Temple was chosen one of the delegates from this county, and of course was confident of one vote. The nomination unquestionably came about thusly: Mr. Temple is a relative of "Ben" Temple, of Philadelphia, who was second best for the same office at a previous convention, and "Ben" is a member of the "ring," consequently his support from Philadelphia. Mr. Temple has been in Philadelphia for several weeks past."

THE continued ascendency of the Republican party was never more necessary to the country than now. The whole South is again in commotion, and the Democracy is almost everywhere putting forth the doctrine of repudiation. If that party were to obtain majority in Congress, practical rebellion in the form of Ku-Kluxism would undoubtedly rule the whole South; the national credit would be nearly destroyed; the crisis of 1873 renewed with ten-fold force, and the country again thrown into confusion and turmoil. It is no time for making chances—success must be made certain.

THERE is a perceptible ripple among the Democracy of Huntingdon county. A portion are opposed to the attempted fusion with a faction of the Republican party under the leadership of Guss, the editor of the "Globe," and they openly declare that if they cannot have an entire Democratic ticket to vote for, they will vote the straight Republican ticket. So intense is that feeling becoming that the "Monitor," the only Democratic paper in the county, is publishing communications demanding a full Democratic county ticket.

THE daily papers of yesterday gave account of a terrible riot in New Orleans. The "White League" are in arms on the street. A fight occurred last Monday in which forty persons were killed, and many others wounded. There is only one company of U. S. troops there, and they are powerless to do anything to quell the disturbance.

—Meek declared if the democracy nominated Gilliland for Legislature he would oppose him in the Watchman; now he asks Gilliland's friends to vote for men who are more obnoxious to them than Gilliland could possible have been to him. How very consistant.

THE old Rebel spirit is beginning to show itself in the South, and negroes are being murdered at the rate of eight or ten a day. The only offence the negroes commit is in voting the Republican ticket.

THE Maine election passed off quietly last Monday with a clear gain for the Republican ticket. The legislature elected this year will choose a successor to Hannibal Hamlin.

For the REPUBLICAN.

MESSIAH'S CAMPMEETING.

The Campmeeting of Messiah's Church held at Pine Glen during Sept. 2nd to the 9th, was all that could be desired, except that so few out of so many were willing to give themselves to the Lord. The order was excellent.

THE LOCATION

of the encampment was well selected in a grove belonging to Mr. Hipple and afforded a splendid site for the occasion, as well as occupying a central position in the community around which, for the most part is destitute of church buildings.

THE WEATHER

was very favorable, yet nevertheless not without threatening aspect; but God who does all things according to his will and does them well, whatever we may think, graciously prevented any discomfiture.

THE PREACHING

of the Word was plain, pointed, and sanctified by the Holy Spirit, was forcibly impressed upon the minds of those who heard, and doubtless many lasting impressions were made, which will bring glory to God, and salvation to those exercised by them. Twenty professed faith in Christ, after the hearing of the Word. One died about five minutes after having found peace by believing.

BAPTISM,

not rantism, was administered to six believers by the pastor in charge on the Susquehanna River. The ceremony was solemn and impressive, the evidences of Truth clearly evincing the recognition of the Master, calling forth the answer of a "good conscience" toward God. The last service of the meeting was held on Wednesday evening which closed by giving the parting hand.

A WORD

about the death that occurred as I have heard various erroneous reports concerning it. Mrs. Sarah Eckly was the wife of John Eckly living about three miles from the encampment. They had both been zealous followers of Christ in former years, but becoming detached from the church to which they belonged by removal, and surrounded by wicked influences they let go their hold on God, and for years have lived in a backslidden state. Many sudden deaths having occurred among their relations during the past year they became impressed with the necessity of having hope of salvation; and accordingly one of their daughters, a Mrs. Forey, gave herself to the Lord, and was baptized; next followed the father in open confession of his wanderings, and his renewed hold on Christ. Mrs. Eckly, the woman in question, was frequently engaged in conversation during Wednesday—saying that she would give herself to the Lord, and then she "would just as soon die, as do anything else." She started for home, but before she got far on her way she returned, perfectly composed and sound in health. After the evening service, she with an unconverted daughter came to the altar for prayer, and during the first prayer she found peace in Christ. She manifested her joy by praising the Lord, and turning toward the congregation, she said, "Oh what a congregation of sinners, if they only would turn to the Lord." And then turning to a sister standing near by she said, "take me to the tent I'm going to die now." Walking toward the tent she calmly praised the Lord for her acceptance, and upon reaching the tent she soon expired. I am told that her mother died while standing by the stove preparing a meal. And her father while at the wood pile getting wood for house use. It is said that sister Eckly was killed by excitement, and that in jumping she ruptured a blood vessel. I deny the assertion. What she did, she did deliberately with a collected mind. She did not jump nor did I see any one jumping during the whole meeting and I was there from Thursday till its close on the following Wednesday evening. What caused the death of the other two referred to?

Yours for Jesus,
J. ZEIGLER.

VOTERS, ATTENTION!

All voters must pay their taxes one month before election. See to it at once, you will not be allowed to vote if your taxes are not paid.

——Below we quote an article from an exchange in regard to the construction of fish ponds. We have a number of ponds in the county that have been more or less successful and the following suggestion may prove of some use: Use no wood whatever. I have an extended and expensive experience in regard to fish ponds, and have always found that stone or brick is cheapest in the end. In building a dam I first lay up a line of brick extending to within an inch or two of the line of the top of the dam. Now pile your dirt on each side of the wall and you can bid defiance to the musk rats, which have often in one night destroyed the accumulated fishes of years. Do not trust the plank, the vermin seem rather to enjoy eating their way through them. The proportions of the dam should be as follows: Let the breadth of the top equal the height, and the base be three times the height. Thus if your dam is ten feet high let the width of the top be ten feet, and that of the base thirty feet. Face the sluice-way with stone or brick and let it extend to the bottom of the pond. Place at the outlet two sets of screens of galvanized iron wire, the uppermost being for the purpose of catching any leaves, sticks, etc., which may find their way into the pond; the lower to prevent the escape of the fishes. One inch mesh for the upper and one half inch for the lower will be about right. Arrange these so that they can be readily removed and cleaned and then keep them clean.

——Frank Stover, Col. Jim Stewart, John Bricker and J. R. Dinges of Boolsburg, made a trip to Niagara Falls and Canada, and returned home safe and sound week before last.

As they past through Canada they observed that the farmers were only harvesting their wheat and oats during the latter part of August. The novel part of Canada farming to them, was, that they plow the ground, sow the wheat for the ensuing year before they harvest their crops; which would make what we call fall seeding in July with them.

——Prof. G. W. Fortney, brother of D. F. Fortney, Esq., of this place, has been elected principal of the Clearfield public schools, and will enter upon his duties on Monday next. Mr. Fortney is a graduate of Pennsylvania College and has spent several years successfully as a teacher. During last year he occupied the chair of ancient languages and natural sciences in the Selinsgrove Seminary. We commend him to the good people of Clearfield as a gentleman in every way qualified to take charge of their public schools.

——The Patrons of Husbandry will hold a basket Pic-nic in Leech's Grove three miles west of Centre Hall Thursday September 24th. Prominent speakers of the order will address the audience. There will be several bands present. All the different grangers in Centre County, are expected to be in attendance. The public generally are invited. Hour of meeting 10 o'clock A. M.

——We were pleased to recieve a friendly letter, the other day from Gen. S. Miles Green of Barre Forge, Huntingdon County, in which he inclosed the price of his subscription. He also requested us to tender his kind regards to Messrs. Jos. G. McMinn and F. P. Green, the handsome druggists, also to Messrs. Burnside & Thomas, over the way. Those gentlemen will please take notice.

——Arrangements are being made to erect a large Summer Hotel on Half Moon Hill. The unprecedented success of Bellefonte as a summer resort, during the season that has just closed, has created a demand for such a hotel as the one proposed to be built on this loveliest site of all, in and about the borough—Half Moon Hill.

——The Bellefonte Academy, familiarly known as the "School in the Mauntains," opened on Wednesday last under the most favorable auspices. Every session brings to the institution an increased number of students. Prof. Hughes, the accomplished principal, has few equals as an educator.

——A patent wash machine has been exhibited on our streets for a week past. It appears to be a good thing but the agent would probably meet with more success if he would demonstrate the virtues of the washer on some of the articles of clothing about his person.

——More people crowd about the depot when the evening train arrives than can be found at any prayer meeting in the town.

STATE ITEMS.

—Dauphin county spent $9,000 on vagrants last year.

—Partridges are numerous in Berks and adjoining counties.

—A fine vein of marble has been discovered in Lebanon county.

—Incendiaries have just made another attempt to burn Petrolia.

—The Williamsport Register will hereafter be issued as an afternoon paper.

—Blackberries are still plenty in the mountains at forty cents a bucket.

—New Baptist and Presbyterian church edifices are being erected in Rochester.

—The new Presbyterian church at Meadville is rapidly approaching completion.

—A rich vein of potter's clay has been discovered near Liberty, Lycoming county.

—The insurance companies are cancelling all policies on unoccupied houses in Corry.

—A Middletown boy played with a bull and came off the little end of the horn, gored.

—The pear crop of Chester county was ruined early in the season by the "pear snails."

—The State Grand Lodge of the Order of Seven Wise Men is in session at Williamsport.

—Dauphin county contributed nine persons to the Easton Penitentiary on Monday week.

—The Mayor of Reading issues about fifty building permits per month. Healthy growth.

—The new coffin factory at Beaver Falls will go into operations about the first of November.

—Ben Dawson, of Smith's Ferry, aged fifteen years, caught a forty pound catfish, the other day.

—A new ward has been made out of portions of the North and Northwestern wards, Pottsville.

—Some of the mills at Williamsport have been compelled to shut down on account of low water.

—The corner-stone of a Union church will be laid at Oregon, Lancaster county, on Sunday, 20th inst.

—A four-legged guinea fowl was recently hatched and despached in Londongrove township, Chester county.

—At the rail mill of the Bethlehem Iron Company, fifty-four rails were made in the short time of sixty-eight minutes.

—Eighteen thousand people attended the temperance meeting held in Barnum's Hippodrome, Philadelphia, on Sunday.

—Willie Fisher, a child eight years old, living in Corry, was killed by falling from a loaded wagon and being run over on Friday.

—Two hundred and fifty tons of stone were loosened by one blast, near Allentown, the other day. Three and a half kegs of powder were used.

—A Columbia man never reads a newspaper, never heard of Grant or Greeley, Beecher or Tilton; but is well posted in the New Testament.

—The Attorney General has brought suits against one hundred and twenty-five corporations throughout the Commonwealth for the recovery of the bonus on charters.

—A jealous husband in Johstown pretended to hang himself on Saturday last, first cutting the rope nearly through. He didn't have to be cut down and resuscitated.

—The Crane Iron Company, Lehigh county, have notified their employees of another reduction on and the 12th instant; keepers receiving $2,60 per day, helpers $1.50 and fillers $1.15.

—There is great excitement at Unionville, Berks Co., over a case of infanticide. A single woman, thirty years of age, gave birth to an infant and put it to death by breaking its neck.

—A twenty-five year old gander in Berks Co., is getting ripe for christmas. Nitro-glycerine should be used for "stuffing" before cooking. Nothing else would knock the "stuffing" out of it.

—Mrs. Mary Hoy and her children, of Reading, have just secured a verdict of $6,540 against the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad Company, for the killing of Agustus Hoy, the father and husband.

—C. C. Shelley, a wealthy and well known citizen of Williamsport, has been missing since the 17th of August. Detectives have been employed to hunt him up but their efforts thus far have been fruitless.

—John Hagey, of Hillertown, Lehigh county, aged sixty years, went hunting last Sunday, and shot himself so badly that one of his legs will have to be amputated. Here's a warning to all bad boys who hunt of Sunday.

—The Elk Advocate says lumbering business promises to be very slack this winter. There will be not over a fourth of the amount of logs cut in this section that have been formerly, which will have the effect of advancing prices.

—We learned from the Lebanon News that a man named William Sylvester, hailing from Cumberland, Maryland, has started upon a swindling tour. The plan of the individual is to seek aid from the Kinghts of Pythias by claiming to be a distressed brother of that order. Look out for him.

—A Harrisburg youth, who wears his shirts of the most approved style, buttoned at the back, when retiring, as he jumped into the bed, in some manner was caught by the bed post, and hung suspended by the shirt band for a short time, and narrowly escaped strangulation. At least the Telegraph says so.

—The Potter Co. Journal publishes the following: Messrs Phelphs, Dodge & Co. will soon offer for sale their extensive lands in this county, at prices ranging from four to twenty dollars per acre. They will be advertised as soon as Mr. Deane has surveyed them. Already some fifty German families hage made arrangements to purchase, and others will also do so. The low price of these lands will help materially to settle and build Tioga county. Mr. E. B. Campbell, of Williamsport, who has been for thirty years past the trusty and devoted agent of the Company, will take charge of the land office, assisted by Hon. J. B. Niles, whose duty it will be, we presume, to perfect title to these lands and give deeds for the same.

DEAD.

This sweet, wonderful poem is out searching for an author. Who would not like to know and love the mother of such a waif?

"She is dead!" they said to him. "Come away; Kiss her and leave her—thy love is clay!"

They smoothed her tresses of dark brown hair; On her forehead of stone they laid it fair.

Over her eyes that gazed too much,
They drew the lids with a gentle touch;

With a gentle touch they closed up well
The sweet, thin lips that had secrets to tell;

About her brown and beautiful face
They tied her veil and her marriage lace.

And drew on her white feet the white silk shoes—
Which were the whitest, no eye could choose!

And over her breast they crossed her hands—
"Come away," they said, "God understands!"

And there was silence, and nothing there
But silence, and scents of aglatere.

And jasmine and roses, and rosemary,
And they said, "As a lady should lie, lies she."

And they held their breath as they left the room,
With a shudder, to glance at its stillness and gloom

But he who loved her too well to dread
The sweet, the stately and beautiful dead,

He lit his lamp and took his key
And turned it. Alone again—he and she.

He and she; but she would not speak,
Though he kissed in the old place, the quiet cheek.

He and she, yet she would not smile,
Though he called her the name she loved erewhile.

He and she; yet she could not move
To any passionate whisper of love.

Then he said "Cold lips and breast without breath
Is there no voice? no language of death?

"Dumb to the ear and still to the sense,
But to the heart and soul distinct, intense?

"See now; I will listen with soul, not ear,
What was the secret of your dying dear?

"Was it the infinite wonder of all
That you ever could let life's flower fall?

"Or was it the greater marvel to feel
The perfect calm o'er the agony to steal?

"Was the miracle greater to find how deep
Beyond all dreams sank downward that sleep?

"Did life roll back its record, dear?
And show, as they say it does, past things clear?

"And was it the innermost heart of bliss
To find out so what a wisdom love is?

"O perfect dead! O, dead most dear!
I hold the breath of my soul to hear!

"I listen as deep as to horrible hell.
As high as to heaven, and you do not tell!

"There must be pleasure in dying sweet,
To make you so placid from head to feet.

"I would tell you if I were dead,
And 'twere your hot tears on my brow shed,

"I would say, though the angel of death had laid
His sword on my lips to keep it unsaid.

"You should not ask vainly, with steaming eyes,
Which of all death's was the chiefest surprise;

"The very strangest and suddenest thing
Of all surprises dying must bring."

Ah foolish world! Oh, most kind dead!
Though he told me, who will believe it was said?

Who will believe what he heard her say,
With the sweet, soft voice, in the dear old way:

"The utmost wonder is this; I hear,
And see you, and love you, and kiss you dear;

"And am your angel, who was your bride,
And know that though dead I have never died."

[The following lines were written by a little miss of twelve years of age, living in New Millport, which we think an excellent poem for one so young—Ed.]

LINES WRITTEN ON THE DEATH OF MRS. E. D. BLOOM.

MY MOTHER.

We feel the loss of a mother;
'Tis lonely on every side,
She sleeps with sister and brother
The last trumpet's call to abide.

She cared for us many a year,
While suffering on a bed of pain:
We meet no more our mother dear,
We laid her in the churchyard green.

She has gone to the land of love,
With the angels so pure and bright;
Her spirit has gone to heaven above,
She is robed in pearly white.

She has gone to meet her Saviour,
We hope to meet her with love;
She asked us all one favor,
To prepare and meet her above.

She has gone to that happy land,
With the angels robed in white,
And joined their sweet Heavenly band
And to sit on the throne so bright.

We feel the loss of our mother,
Oh, it is so lonely since she died;
There's my sisters and my brothers,
Oh, how they have wept and sighed.

Oh we hope to meet our mother
In that heavenly land of love
Farewell to sisters and brothers
She has gone to heaven above.

Miss L. G.

Our Story Teller.

THE MAGIC WORDS.

BY S. T. ARTHUR.

Peter Crandall was not at all ill-natured, captious, or fault-finding man, and yet the home of Peter Crandall was not a happy home. Very little sunshine came across the threshold. Was it his wife's fault? A visitor who saw her in her usual mood might lean to this opinion. She inclined to fretfulness and impatience, and often scolded the children, when the husband could see but little in them to blame.

The Crandall's were poor. Peter Crandall was mechanic, and earned only a mechanic's wages. Mrs. Crandall was the mother of five children, the oldest of them thirteen years old; but their narrow income left nothing to spare for the hire of a domestic, and so all the work fell upon her. She was toil-worn and toil-weary at the dying of each day; and the same, although not in an equal extent, might be said of her husband. He had more strength for his work, and could endure greater fatigue.

Between Peter Crandall and his wife there did not seem to exist much affection. They never spoke loving words, nor manifested, except on rare occasions, any pleasure at meeting, or any mutual interest. The little courtesies of life were something unknown in their cheerless dwelling. Rude, boisterous, quarrelsome, the children grew up, bringing discord into the house that was uncomfortable enough without that disagreeable inmate. The mother scolded and punished in anger, but saw no good of her discipline. The father sometimes scolded in concert but alway felt an unpleasant sensation afterwards, as if he had been doing wrong.

And so the year went on, and the sunbeams came to cross the threshold into the dwelling. Occasionally Peter Crandall obtained a brief glimpse into some other homes; and as the pleasant vision passed, a sigh would disturb his bosom.

Something was wrong in his own home, that he felt for a great while—and he did not wholly blame his wife. But the exact location of the wrong he could not clearly perceive. In the beginning it was different. Then there was a warmth in the heart, and sunshine in the face of his wife. But if it was in his memory marked day after day as a dial records the advancing shadow, how the brightness of her face diminished steadily until it was eclipsed. Ah! If he had dreamed of the cause? But Crandall was not a man that looked inward upon his own life-not a man who considered how his actions had their effect upon others. He was moreover, a silent undemonstrative man; rarely expressing his feelings. He gave few outward signs by which any one could read his heart. Here lay the origin of the trouble at home—the beginning of the eclipse that left his little world in almost total darkness, when it should have been broad noonday. It was not enough for Mrs. Crandall, in the earliest years of their wedding life, to know that her husband loved her. Her heart asked for more. She wanted loving words; and for lack of these, its green things withered and its blossoms faded. Peter Crandall saw no reason why he should be all the time passing compliments. He couldn't do it. It was not in him. He would have felt ashamed of it as a weakness.

And so, almost from the beginning he failed to give those little outward signs of affection—those pleasant little tokens of kindness so grateful to all. When his wife said, as was often the case, during the first year that succeeded their marriage, 'Thank you, Peter,' and smiled gratefully in return for some little act of kindness—or expressed pleasure when he came home from his work that evening, drawing her arm around his neck and kissing him—or told him how lonely she felt all day, and what a light his coming brought into her little home—Peter Crandall felt a glow of pleasure at his heart. But it did not come within the range of imagination—dull at best—to conceive that like words from him would be to the spirit of his wife, like dew on the thirsty ground. And so he never expressed pleasure at meeting; but rather affected from a kind of false pride a certain coldness, as though it were a lack of manliness to act differently. No matter how many little attentions his wife might show him—no matter what she prepared for his return, nor with what dainty skill she cooked the evening and noonday meals, he never paused, and rarely gave even the meager reward of expressed gratifications. But if things went wrong—if the coffee was bad, or the bread sour, or the meat burnt in cooking, he was sure to speak out—and not always in over choice language.

From this inauspicious beginning went on steadily the unhappy change. The coming of children, which, in their advent, was like the falling down upon them of sunbeams through suddenly rifted clouds, increasing instead of diminishing the unpleasant aspect of things in the house of Peter Crandall. If the mother's heart had been cheerful and strong—if her husband had not shut out the light it needed to keep its green things unwithered and its flowers in bloom—this would not have been so. The cheerful spirit would have given life to the body—would have filled every nerve with vital force, and muscle with strength for daily toil. But the children proved more a burden than a comfort. There was in their home so little sunshine that few green things flourished in their hearts, and opening of flowers was a rare occurence.

One day Peter Crandall was sent by his employer to do some work in the house of a customer. The work happened to be in the sitting-room, in which were four children with their mother. The lady spoke politely to him when he came in, and the children treated him respectfully. He had been at work only a little while when his attention was attracted by a request from the mother to one of her children to go up stairs and bing her some articles she named. We say, requested, for this was the form of words uttered. The child went instantly and was back in a very few moments.

'Thank you, dear,' said the mother.

Crandall turned and looked at the mother. Her countenance was tranquil and happy.

'Jane, I will take the scissors, if you please.'

Crandall looked again. It was the mother who had spoken. One of the children were sitting on the floor, busily engaged cutting out pictures. But she started up instantly and brought the scissors.

'Thank you, dear,' was the mother's acknowledgment of the service, as in the former case.

'Will you want them long? asked the child.

'No, dear, only a few minutes. Then you shall have them again.'

The child stood patiently by her mother's side until the scissors were again given to her.

'Thank you,' she said, as she took them from her mother's hand and then danced back, singing, to her place on the floor, where the pictures lay.

All this struck Crandall as beautiful, and he sighed as the harsher image of his own home intruded itself. While yet at work, the husband and father came home. His presence was hailed with delight. Every child had something to show or tell him, and he entered into the feelings of each, praising their little achievements, and approving wherever there seemed a chance for words of approbation. It was the same towards his wife. She spoke of some directions she had given to Crandall.

'That was right,' he answered, 'how thoughtful you are.'

'You forgot your pocket-handkerchief this morning,' said the latter, handing a white cambric handkerchief to her husband

'So I did. Thank you, dear.' And he received the handkerchief with as polite an acknowledgment in manner as in words. Many other little instances of home courtesies were observed by Crandall, who left the house, when his work was completed, with a new impression of life stamped upon his consciousness. The image of that pleasant home was fixed upon his mind like a thing of beauty. He had dreamed, faintly, of such homes; but the reality was now before him.

The sweet, musical way in which 'Thank you, dear,' had been said, reciprocally, by mother and children, many times and on all occasions of service rendered, no matter how small, had found an echo in his mind, where it was continually repeated, until, 'thank you, dear!' as he mused at his work, came almost to his lips in vocal utterance.

When Crandall went home at nightfall, he was still dreaming over the picture in his mind, and the words, 'Thank you, dear,' were still echoing there in a kind of a low music. He was very much subdued in feeling—almost sad; and there was an air of languor about him, as he came into the room where his wife was at work getting supper ready, that she observed as something unusual.

'Jane, take your father's coat and hang it up,' said Mrs. Crandall to her oldest daughter.

The girl obeyed, but there was no affection in her manner as she moved in a listless sort of way, towards her father, and reached out her hand for his coat. Peter Crandall gave her the garment, saying, 'Thank you, dear.'

The words were spontaneous, not of a design, and spoken with a tender utterance. He was but repeating the tones still sounding in his memory.

That instant life seemed to quicken through the child's frame. She gave one glance of surprise into her father's face, and then stepped away with the coat, like one well pleased to render a service.

Crandall was surprised at himself, and, for an instant, half ashamed at what he had done, as if it were a weakness.

'Will you have a glass of beer?' asked Jane, coming back to her father.

'If you please.'

Crandall wondered at his own voice almost as much as his wife and children wondered. A cold, abrupt 'yes' or 'no' was his accustomed answer.

With what light feet did Jane trip from the room. In a twinkling she was back, with a glass for her father, who as he received it, said 'Thank you.'

To the child, all unaccustomed to such an acknowledgement for a service, these two little words were felt to be a sweet reward.

The father's altered manner and way of speaking was perceived by the children, as well as by their mother; and as if by magic, the whole sphere of their lives seemed changed.

'Shall I bring down your slippers?' asked Jane, returning to her father.

'Yes, that's a good girl,' he answered. 'My feet are aching in those heavy boots.'

As Jane left the room with springing step, Crandall commenced drawing off his boots. They were no sooner laid on the floor, than two little fellows caught hold of them, each desirous of an approving word.

'I'll put one in the closet, and John the other.'

'What a brave little man!' exclaimed Crandall, really pleased at heart, and manifested his pleasure in the tones of his voice. 'I'm a thousand times obliged to you.'

Jane retured with the slippers in a few moments, and stooping down drew them on her father's feet. When she raised up, with cheeks glowing and eyes dancing in a new light, Crandall thought her face looked really beautiful.

'Thank you, dear.' The words came, now, really from the heart.

Mrs. Crandall looked and listened, wonderingly, while a strange glow pervaded her bosom. What could be the meaning of all this? What new spirit had come over her husband? In a quiet, pleasant way, the children gathered around their father, one climbing on his knee.

'What have you been doing all day, Jimmy?' asked Crandall of the child.

'Playing,' was the simple answer.

'Have you been a good boy?'

'Not all the time,' answered the child.

'I'm sorry. Jimmy must try and be a good boy all the time. What have you been playing?'

'Oh, everything. Horses and dogs, hare and bounds.'

Crandall laughed at the reply. The spirit of good nature was transferred into every heart. Even Mrs. Candall, usually in fretty state of mind, felt its genial influence; and Jane, who never willingly gave her mother any assistance and was rarely called upon because she grumbled whenever asked to do anything, now said: 'Mother, can't I help you?'

'Yes, dear.' That 'dear' which had fallen so unexpectedly from the lips of her husband had been echoing in the mind of Mrs. Crandall, and after seeing Jane move with a pleased alacrity about the table, soon had all ready. Peter Crandall praised the fried potatoes, and said the eggs were just what he wanted. Mrs. Crandall looked happy, and was happy. With the vanishing of their father's usual morose silence, and their mother's sour looks and fretful tones, the children's spirits, changing like chameleon, and taking the hue of things around them, rose into new, better and happier states.

Suddenly the eye of Peter Crandall opened. Even while he was wondering at the magic change produced by a few words, a full revelation of the truth came to his mind.

Thought turned once in the right direction. Peter Crandall pondered this new fact in his inner life-history—the magic words—and going back to the very beginning, reviewing his own conduct towards his own wife and in his own family, almost day by day, up to the evening when by the power almost of a single word, the whole scene changed, and quite as suddenly as we see it, sometimes in a pantomine. He saw his error—saw and felt how unjust he had been, how cold, and even cruel in his coldness. Very careful did he guard himself afterwards; and very prompt was he in observing all the little courtesies towards his wife and children, which are so beautiful to see, and so sweet in their influence. The green things flourished in the heart of his wife, and the flowers bloomed there as of old. The children learned to emulate the kind words and courteous acknowledgments for all little servives that soon become a habit with their father and mother; and into the kind words spoken, kind feelings soon flowed. It was the beginning of the new order of things in the home of Peter Crandall; where, in good time the desert blossomed in the rose.

Words appear as little things in themselves, but they have great power. The magic of kind words is wonderful. Try them, ye silent Peter Crandalls, who have fretful wives and contentious children. Try the effect of a little wholesome praise on your tired, unhappy, overworked companion, and see if it doesn't brighten her pale face as if a whole flood of sunbeams had been poured upon it. Try it with your children, and if you have in your hearts the feelings of true men you will be so pleased with the effect that you will keep on trying, until you will scarcely recognize your own household.

AT THE FOOT OF GENTRIES' TRAIL.

A Romance of the Yosemite.

When I was at Harvard my room mate and Bosom friend was Charley Despard. He was of very good family, but not very well off, and when our college career was concluded and I took my seat in Bates & Blog's office to court the Goddess Themis he went off to push his fortune in the Golden State.

Charley was a queer sort of a fellow—capable of great exertion, but deplorably lazy, always making good resolutions but never carrying them into execution, without an atom of vice in his constitution, and yet always getting into scrapes. After he went to California we corresponded pretty regularly, and from his letters I learned that he was experimenting in a new business every other week. Now he was in a soft goods store in San Francisco; then he ran a paper in Denver; then he drove a stage between Auburn and Forest Hill; then he was a billiard marker in Sacramento, and finally he told me that he was in for a big thing in gold mines at Green Flat, and enclosed his photograph to show me how he looked in his working clothes. I could scarcely recognize my matty friend of former days in the lanky figure pictured on the cardboard. A slouched cap perched on the back of his head, a wisp of handkerchief tied round his neck, while hirsute appendages of Sampsonic dimensions covered and encircled the place where his face ought to have been. But his big eyes were there looking out just as true and honest as ever and so I knew it was Charley, even though he did wear big boots and carried a six-shooter slung at his side.

He stuck to the mines all spring and summer, and his letters were full of hope and radiant with success, until all at once they stopped suddenly and nothing more was heard of him. I was wondering what had become with him, whether he had come to grief and was ashamed to write me bad news, or a worse fate had overtaken him in the wilds of the far West, and made inquires of some of his friends, but none of them could tell me anything about him, so I was fain to sit still, hoping against hope that he would turn up.

One evening I was all alone in my room watching the flickering light of the gas, when I heard a violent ring at the door, and presently a figure stood in the doorway. At first I did not recognize my old chum, but when I heard the accents of his voice my fears and doubts all melted away, and I welcomed him as one come back from the dead.

'Why, Charley, is that you? Where have you been? When did you get in the town? How's things in general?'

'Yes; it's me. Got in from California this morning. Things is first rate.'

'Why, what a swell you are. Why didn't you come right here? I know there's something up.'

'Guess you're about right. Hit it thar, pard. You bet.'

And then he relapsed into silence and demolished a lavender kid glove in trying to take it off.

'What's up old man? Let's have it. Go ahead.'

'Well, I ain't right sure what's up. I've struck a lead and it looked no end of good, and now when I take the dust to the store it won' sell.'

'Please to interpret, and bear in mind that I am not as learned in mining lingo as you are.'

'Well, then, here goes.' But it didn't go.

'Hard up? You don't look like it.'

'No. Got half a million to my credit with Clews.'

'Woman?'

'Yes, and she's the best little woman in the world, at least I thought she was.' And here the other kid glove burst up in a most decided manner.

'Now, see here; you have come to a professional man, and if you want solace and advice make a clear breast of it and tell me all your story.'

'Well, then, you know my last letter to you was from Green Flat, the one with the photo.'

Yes; I got it. There you are over the mantel-piece, in the costume of the period.'

'That mine turned out a real good thing. We washed out about seventy thousand in two months, and then we got rid of the concern to a 'Frisco company at a million and a half, so I am pretty happy that way.'

'Glad to hear it, but about her ladyship?'

'Well, when the thing was done, and the money in the First National, we all went off to the Bay, and Irish Ned got shot one night. He lived just long enough to make his will and split his share between me and old Tom Norris.'

'I regret the untimely departure of Irish Ned, but I congratulate you that he was able to dispose of his property so satisfactorily. But the lady?'

'I am a comin' to her. There was a lot of legal foolin' after Ned's death about the inquest and the probate of his will, and I got tired of loafing at 'Frisco so I made tracks up country and had a look around the Flat. That was rather worse in the way of poison, so one morning, I went and took Bucker out of the corral, hitched him up, got on top, and set off for a slashing gallop. All of a sudden I took to a notion I'd never seen Yosemite Valley, and as it wasn't much of a ride from the Flat, I went right on. Bucker and I got along first rate, and we were down at the foot of the Gentries' trail just after sundown two days afterwards.'

'Here the romance commences. Go on. I begin to see light.'

'There wasn't much to be seen there, I can tell you. Those high cliffs and those big trees cut it rough on sunshine. Why, I nearly rode over her before I saw what I was doing.'

'Her?'

'Yes; she was lying in a bundle in the middle of the road, and only Bucker shyed we'd have given her hoofs and no mistake.'

'Her? Who? Intoxicated? Injun Squaw?'

Here Charley burst into cursory remarks which I shall not repeat, then went on.

'No, the darlingest, dearest little atom of feminine humanity that ever claimed the assistance of mortal man.'

'Bravo! Encore! So you did not pass by on the other side, like the man that fell among thieves.'

'No I got off and tied Bucker to a tree, and then picked her up.'

'What did she say? This is becoming dramatic.'

'She didn't say nothing. She was in a faint and all over mud.'

'I pardon your grammar. But what did you do?'

'Well, I took a chaw, and then I went down to the river, and filled my hat with water and splashed it right in her face.'

'What did she say to that?'

'She said, 'Oh!'

'Don't wonder much. What next?'

'Well, I thought she might have got too much water, so I poured some whiskey down her throat.'

'Spiritual consolation for temporal misfortune. How did she take it?'

'She caughed like fits, and then sat up straight and looked up.'

'Well, what next?'

'She said 'Oh dear,' and tried to get up, but she couldn't do it, and then she screamed and fell back.'

'Pleasant. How did you proceed?'

'I talked civil to her. I'd almost forgotten how, but my 'Sunday go to meeting manners came back to me wonderfully and tried to persuade her I was not a Hoodlum lot.'

'In which I presume you succeeded.

'Yes. After awhile she put up her back hair, and then told me that she had tumbled off her horse and sprained her ankle and didn't know how to get to Hutchings' Hotel.

'Charming situation. You enacted the role of ministering angel.'

'You bet. I whipped out my bowie, and had her boot and stocking in tatters in two minutes. Took the sleeves off my shirt and bound a cold water bandage on. Then kicked Bucker in the ribs, and when he was getting his breath hoisted her up, and so we proceeded along the trail until we got to Hutchins, where we found the house in a muss and papa awful skeered.

'So there is a papa in the business?'

'Yes; good old fellow, to; was tremendously obliged and offered me some coin.'

'The reward of merit.'

'I got riled at that, showed him my six shooter and asked him if he wanted to insult me, whereupon he apologized like a gentleman and we all had a drink.'

'Including her ladyship?'

'No, confound you, the women folks had taken her off.'

'Proceed with papa.'

'We had another drink, and got talking, and I found out that he was Tom Kemble's father.'

'What! Tom that was in our year! That delicate little fellow you used to make such a pet of?'

'That's about it. Poor Tom had pattered out, and the old gentlemen and his daughter had taken a trip West.

'The family acquaintance facilitated friendship?'

'I suppose it helped. At any rate I stuck to them and we went round together, and Nettie and I (that's her name, Nettie Kemble) got nuts and I spoke out to the old man and showed him my hand, and told him hearts were trumps, but that I could spot diamonds if I had a mind.'

'What cards did he call to that?'

'He told me to come up to New York and he'd see about it.'

'Provident paternal. So you came up accordingly?'

'Got in this morning. Went and got fixed up square, and started right off to Gramercy Park.'

'To be received with outstretched hands and open arms?'

'Missed the post that time. Sent up my card but they'd gone to a mantinee at the opera.'

'Where you followed without delay?'

'Straight off. That fellow at the office owes me some change, for I gave him a fifty bill and didn't wait for my stamps.'

'Prices are high but not so bad as fifty.'

'I ran round the house until they wanted to put me out. Said I was mad.'

'A conclusion uncharitable in the extreme but pardonable under the circumstances.'

'We were having a talk about that when the people came out, and then they let me go, and I waited to see the crowd pass, and Jack, when she and her father came along, I felt all of a heap, and just stood still and looked right at them, and she looked straight in my face and never stopped, and she's forgot me, and I'm going back to California to-morrow.' Here poor Charley covered his face with his hands and broke down.

'Hold on, did you get shaved to-day?

'Pretty much all over.'

'The tonsorial operation may have altered your indenity.'

He lifted his face up and a gleam of hope flashed over his features. I took down the photograph and led him to the glass.

'See there, look on this picture and on that.'

I—don't—think—I shall go back to the Flat to-morrow. What shall I do?'

'Interval for reflection.'

'Was your address on your card?'

'Yes, St. Nicolos.'

'Just you stay here to-night and we'll have a chat, and see if they don't call to-morrow or write. Perhaps there is a letter now.'

'By Jove you're right. Let's go and see right off.'

'Do take it quietly. I don't expect any such thing.'

'But I do. Will you come, for if you won't I'll go alone.'

Up he got, and, nolens volens, I was obliged to accompany him, for I feared he might do something rash in his frenzy. We arrived at the St. Nicholas, and sure enough a letter awaited him with N. K. monogramized on the fold. He opened it and read as follows:

WEDNESDAY EVENING.

Gramecy Square.

MY DEAR MR. DESPARD: I am so glad you have come. Could it have been you I saw at the Academy? It was not a bit like you, and yet I think it was. Please call soon.

Ever Yours, NELLIE KEMBLE.

Charley yelled, 'she signs herself 'Ever Yours,' and wanted to shout for the crowd, but a happier thought struck him, and before I knew what he was up to he leaped on to the box of a carriage and went up Broadway in the same style he used to steer his team among the stumps and boulders of the California wilds. I followed him in another with the coachman, and in due time found Charley's trap in charge of an astonished darkey at the abode of his lady love.

I came away then. Below you have the later news from the scene of action:

Despard—Kemble.—At the residence of the bride's father, January 16, by Rev. George Newton, D. D., Charles Despard, late of Green Flat, Cal., to Nellie Kemble, only daughter of Thomas Kemble, of Gramercy Park, N. Y.

Fallen Man and Woman.

Junius Henri Brown says: Man sunk below his natural level hates and affects to despise the height where he has walked. Woman, fallen from her fair estate, looks ever back to it with longing and regretful eyes, he proclaims himself no worse than his fellows, endeavors to pull those above down to this flat. She admits it is her fault; deplores it, is glad there are women so much better and more fortunate than she; strives to have hope for the future, and listens with bounding blood to every voice that brings back the spotless past. Miserable, down-trodden, wholly forsaken, she looks up from the dross and mire and hears the lark of her love still singing at the gates of heaven.

GEMS.

A SUNDAY-SCHOOL boy being asked who made the beautiful hills about there, replied that he did not know, as his parents only moved into the town the Friday before.

SOMEBODY mentioned the other day something about jokes that are ten years old, whereat a party across the room sung out, inquiring whether such be decade jokes.

"NONE knew him but to trust him, none named him but to dun," is the pathetic sentence with which a Delaware merchant closes an advertisement for a missing customer.

LANDLADY, fiercely.—"You mustn't occupy that bed with your boots on." Boarder—"Never mind; they're an old pair. I guess the bugs won't hurt 'em. Let 'em rip, anyhow!"

YOUNG wife—"George, dear, you have taken a single ticket for mamma, have you not?" "Of course my dear, who ever heard of taking a return ticket for a mother-in-law?"

WHAT relation is bread to a sewing machine? The mother. Why the mother? Because bread is a necessity, and a sewing machine is an invention, and necessity is the mother of invention.

IT isn't worth while, under all circumstances to express your sentiments freely unless you hanker after martyrdom. While Miss Lydia Thompson was capering in a Memphis theatre the other night, a fellow in the audience shouted, "Bully for you, old tow top! Good Lordy look at her kick," and they put him out.

THE ornamental parts of dress are among the most important features of the winter toilettes—the velvet belts with engraved clasps and chains and pretty pendant attachments. The vest collars of silk, or velvet, or cloth, with ruffles of lace or muslin. The fichus of silk and lace for the neck, the capes, and fichus of lace alone, the vests of lace, and the ornamental combs, coronets, and bands, without which a dressy toilette is not now considered complete.—From Demorest's Monthly.

WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY

THE GREAT REMEDY FOR

which can be cured by a timely resort to this standard preparation, as has been proved by the hundreds of testimonials received by the proprietors. It is acknowledged by many prominent physicians to be the most reliable preparation ever introduced for the relief and cure of all Lung complaints, and is offered to the public, sanctioned by the experience of over forty years. When resorted to in season it seldom fails to effect a speedy cure in the most severe cases of Coughs, Bronchitis, Croup, Whooping Cough, Influenza, Asthma, Colds, Sore Throat, Pains or Soreness in the Chest and Side, Liver Complaint, Bleeding at the Lungs, &c. Wistar's Balsam does not dry up a Cough, and leave the cause behind, as is the case with most preparations, but it loosens and cleanses the lungs, and allays irritation, thus removing the cause of the complaint.

Ayer's
Sarsaparilla

Is widely known as one of the most effectual remedies ever discovered for cleansing the system and purifying the blood. It has stood the test of years, with a constantly growing reputation, based on its intrinsic virtues, and sustained by its remarkable cures. So mild as to be safe and beneficial to children, and yet so searching as to effectually purge out the great corruptions of the blood, such as the scrofulous and syphilitic contamination. Impurities or diseases that have lurked in the system for years soon yield to this powerful antidote, and disappear. Hence its wonderful cures, many of which are publicly known, of Scrofula, and all scrofulous diseases, Ulcers, Eruptions, and eruptive disorders of the skin, Tumors, Blotches, Boils, Pimples, Pustules, Sores, St. Anthony's Fire, Rose or Erysipelas, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Ringworm, and internal Ulcerations of the Uterus, Stomach, and Liver. It also cures other complaints, to which it would not seem especially adapted, such as Dropsy, Dyspepsia, Fits, Neuralgia, Heart Disease, Female Weakness, Debility, and Leucorrhœa, when they are manifestations of the scrofulous poisons.

It is an excellent restorer of health and strength in the Spring. By renewing the appetite and vigor of the digestive organs, it dissipates the depression and listless languor of the season. Even where no disorder appears, people feel better, and live longer, for cleansing the blood. The system moves on with renewed vigor and a new lease of life.

COSMOLINE

COSMOLINE is the concentrated extract of the healing properties of Petroleum, which are known. It is the most bland and soothing remedy ever used; beside possessing more healing power than any substance or compound ever prepared. It is for almost all the daily casualties which occur in household, the workshop, or on the farm, as well as for many of the diseases which afflict humanity.

Nature's Sovereign Remedy

FOR BURNS AND SCALDS
It is invaluable, cooling and soothing the injured parts at once, and producing a perfect cure in a very short time, without leaving any scars. For this purpose alone, it is

A BLESSING TO THE WORLD,
FOR FROSTED LIMBS, COSMOLINE is fully as efficacious as for burns and scalds, restoring a healthy action to the injured parts very quickly. It is also the best possible remedy for Chilblains and Chapped Hands.
FOR RHEUMATISM especially Inflammatory, most forms of NEURALGIA, swelling of Limbs or Glands, COSMOLINE affords in the shortest possible time the HAPPIEST RELIEF.

ON CUTS AND BRUISES, the action of COSMOLINE is almost magical. If promptly applied, it prevents soreness, and the wounds heal very rapidly.
FOR PILES, it has proved to be an unequalled remedy, and many a sufferer has blessed the day of its introduction.
FOR SKIN DISEASES we can recommend it with the greatest confidence, especially for Salt Rheum, Tetter, Eczema, etc., and Teething humours.
We might go on enumerating the many other conditions for which it is unequalled, but will only add that wherever there is inflammation from any cause, COSMOLINE brings a rapid and happy relief, and will be the dependence under all circumstances. COSMOLINE is Prescribed by the best physicians, both allopathic and homeopathic. It is NOT A PATENT MEDICINE,

HOUSEHOLD SURGEON'S
but nature's own production, brought into an agreeable and pleasant condition, and is as safe to use anywhere as fresh cream.

No other Bitters in the universe can equal them. I lack space for detailing the availability of these Bitters, but will briefly state its general effects upon the human system, as follows:
It absolutely Purifies the Blood. It speedily corrects all morbid changes in the Blood. It equalizes the circulation of the Blood. It regulates the supply and quality of the blood. It prepares the Blood to furnish a proper support to all the vital properties. It enriches the constituents of the Blood upon which the vital energy of the system is dependent. It infuses the proper degree of animal heat in the system. It purges from the system the morbid humors which retard its natural functions. It imparts vitality and elasticity to every organ of the body. It corrects all derangements, however trivial, which are the first origin of Disease. It promotes the operation of the digestive organs. It improves the appetite and removes all disagreeable feeling after eating. It perfects digestion, rendering it natural and easy. It acts as a mild and efficacious stomachic. It elevates the standard of all the vital forces. It strengthens the nervous fibres and diffuses a calm throughout the nervous system. It destroys all morbid conditions of the mind. It disperses dullness and langnor. It banishes those clogs upon pleasure which produce gloom. It drives away those distressing symptoms which rob us of happiness. It revives the physical energies by infusing new life and power into the system. It fortifies the system against the dangers of malaria, fluctuations of the temperature changes in the climate, &c. In short, it prepares the system for the radical change to be wrought in its condition, and restores it to perfect health and natural vigor.

VINEGAR BITTERS
VEGETABLE — FREE FROM ALCOHOL
PURELY — DR. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA
EUREKA
VINEGAR BITTERS

Dr. J. Walker's California Vinegar Bitters are a purely Vegetable preparation, made chiefly from the native herbs found on the lower ranges of the Sierra Nevada mountains of California, the medicinal properties of which are extracted therefrom without the use of Alcohol. The question is almost daily asked, "What is the cause of the unparalleled success of VINEGAR BITTERS?" Our answer is, that they remove the cause of disease, and the patient recovers his health. They are the great blood purifier and a life-giving principle, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the system. Never before in the history of the world has a medicine been compounded possessing the remarkable qualities of VINEGAR BITTERS in healing the sick of every disease man is heir to. They are a gentle Purgative as well as a Tonic, relieving Congestion or Inflammation of the Liver and Visceral Organs, in Bilious Diseases.

The properties of DR. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS are Aperient, Diaphoretic, Carminative, Nutritious, Laxative, Diuretic, Sedative, Counter-Irritant, Sudorific, Alterative, and Anti-Bilious.

Grateful Thousands proclaim VINEGAR BITTERS the most wonderful Invigorant that ever sustained the sinking system.

No Person can take these Bitters according to directions, and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and vital organs wasted beyond repair.

Bilious, Remittent, and Intermittent Fevers, which are so prevalent in the valleys of our great rivers throughout the United States, especially those of the Mississippi, Ohio, Missouri, Illinois, Tennessee, Cumberland, Arkansas, Red, Colorado, Brazos, Rio Grande, Pearl, Alabama, Mobile, Savannah, Roanoke, James, and many others, with their vast tributaries, throughout our entire country during the Summer and Autumn, and remarkably so during seasons of unusual heat and dryness, are invariably accompanied by extensive derangements of the stomach and liver, and other abdominal viscera. In their treatment, a purgative, exerting a powerful influence upon these various organs, is essentially necessary. There is no cathartic for the purpose equal to DR. J. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS, as they will speedily remove the dark-colored viscid matter with which the bowels are loaded, at the same time stimulating the secretions of the liver, and generally restoring the healthy functions of the digestive organs.

Fortify the body against disease by purifying all its fluids with VINEGAR BITTERS. No epidemic can take hold of a system thus fore-armed.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the region of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offsprings of Dyspepsia. One bottle will prove a better guarantee of its merits than a lengthy advertisement.

Scrofula, or King's Evil, White Swellings, Ulcers, Erysipelas, Swelled Neck, Goitre, Scrofulous Inflammations, Indolent Inflammations, Mercurial affections, Old Sores, Eruptions of the Skin, Sore Eyes, etc. In these, as in all other constitutional Diseases, WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS have shown their great curative powers in the most obstinate and intractable cases.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, these Bitters have no equal. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood.

Mechanical Diseases.—Persons engaged in Paints and Minerals, such as Plumbers, Type-setters, Gold-beaters and Miners, as they advance in life, are subject to paralysis of the Bowels. To guard against this, take a dose of WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS occasionally.

For Skin Diseases, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt-Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ringworms, Scald-head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin, of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters.

Pin, Tape, and other Worms, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. No system of medicine, no vermifuges, no anthelmintics will free the system from worms like these Bitters.

For Female Complaints, in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood, or the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters display so decided an influence that improvement is soon perceptible.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul; your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure, and the health of the system will follow.

OUR ASSOCIATED PRESS LETTER.

PHILADELPHIA, September 15, 1874.

COL. J. W. FORNEY'S TEN THOUSAND.

Having been requested by letter as well as by editorials from patrons of the "Our Associated Press Letters," to give the facts concerning the statement that Col. John W. Forney is in Europe under pay from the Centennial Commission, I present the following explanatory note from Mr. Welsh in answer to these requests.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 7, 1874.

MR. J. W. FRAZIER:

In reply to your inquiry it gives me pleasure to say that the paragraphs traveling the rounds of the newspapers, that J. W. Forney, Esq., and the Hon. William Rigler are employed by the Centennial Board of Finance at a salary of ten thousand dollars a year, each, is untrue. The former is commissioned whilst in Europe—where he proposes to spend a year—to circulate such information as may be needed to give a proper understanding of the character and purposes of the International Exhibition, and to cover the expenses which this duty is likely to cause him, an appropriation for the purpose has been made of one hundred dollars a month. In a recent letter, so earnest is his interest in the discharge of the duty he has assumed, and so enthusiastic his desire that his efficient labors shall be free from even the semblance of being paid for, that he expresses the hope that he may be able to avoid the necessity of using any part of the allowance made him.

As to the Hon. William Bigler, he is a member of the Centennial Board of Finance, is without salary—like all its members without exception—has devoted his whole time to its service, is charged with most responsible duties and it is only within a few weeks that he has consented that his traveling expenses shall be paid. It is mortifying to me to have to call on my fellow countrymen to contradict rumors which convey so false an impression as to the character of the gentlemen and to the good management of our work, and to have to add, that were half the zeal shown in the circulation of what is really being done that is manifested in the repetition of unfounded representations to our disadvantage, our work would be both easier and far more pleasant.

Very respectfully,
JNO. WELSH,

President of the Centennial Board of Finance.

LIFE IN THE SLUMS.

The plague spot of Philadelphia is in the immediate vicinity of Seventh and St. Mary streets, only five minutes walk from the old Hall of American Independence. In the Slums of this neighborhood congregate the scum of the white race, and carion of the negroes. Here white women and black men come together in open, shameless, and filthy lewdness. Here white men are enticed by white prostitutes, only to be robbed and murdered by the negro men who live upon the proceeds of the sale of the bodies of white girls, and money thus obtained by the shedding of human blood.

In order that I might write understandingly of this slime pit, I engaged the services of Sergeant John Duffy, special police officer of the Bedford street mission, and one of the bravest of men, to accompany me through the place. Duffy advised me to arm myself, for while every human brute in the vicinity knew him, and feared him, he would not consent to accompany me unless we were both prepared to protect ourselves. He informed me that countrymen are enticed to the locality by the white courtezans of the negroes who, after being brought to the filthy neighborhood, stand at the door of a brothel hesitating to enter; that, while thus in doubt, the harlot that brings the man to the place will indignantly say: "How dare you insult me." A denial on the part of the man will be made; an angry epithet from the wench follows and in less than a minute two or three brutish looking negroes snatch the man into the dingy hole, swiftly and dexterously slash a razor across his throat, strip the body of its clothing, and whatever of money and valuables there may be upon it, and then tumble the body into the cellar to be buried with many others treated in like manner. If money is found upon the victim, a harlot is dispatched for eatables and whiskey, and as a fitting finale to the tragedy a frantic feast and drunken revelry is indulged in. Mr. Duffy believes the remains of 50 men are buried in the cellars of these pest houses.

The first house we visited was No. 511 South 7th street, a few doors below Lombard street owned by Dennis Quinn, and rented by a tan-colored darkey woman named Prize. This house is occupied as a drinking saloon on the first floor, and is filled with black and white harlots who eat, sleep and sin together indiscriminately. It is located 150 feet from a police station.

The next house visited was No. 710 Cullin St., a narrow alley running parallel with St. Mary Street. This house is rented by a genuine black woman, and entering it we found the black mistress and her four harlots, white girls—aged 22, 31, 40 and 44—all sitting in dishabille upon the floor and industriously sewing upon a patch-work quilt. The only furniture in the room was two chairs and a rickety table.

Next door to No. 710 is the eating Saloon of Cullin Street. This restaurant was a dingy building that boasted of two rooms on the first floor—one where the cooked victuals were served up, the other in the yard where they were cooked. The apartment in which the victuals were eaten was much smaller than the one in which they were cooked. The furniture in the eating room consisted of 4 backless chairs and two tables; here for ten cents, cold ham, boiled cabbage white and sweet potatoes, tomatoes, corn and short cakes are furnished to the envied owner of a "William Meredith."

No. 718 Cullin Street we found to be a building with two rooms on a floor; the whole building was leased by a black woman who had four white girls living with her. This negro makes the bargains for the girls, receives the pay from the negro purchasers of white girls bodies, and from which she doles out a pitiful allowance to the girls. As this negro woman only occupied the front of the house, the rear room and the one above it were sub-let to a white girl, who had two black and two white girls in her employ. This like the front of the dwelling was an assignation house.

No. 714 Cullin Street is a dingy three-room house, owned by a church going member of some society; located in a respectable neighborhood and occupied by a mechanic, the house would rent for $7 per month. Mrs. Price of No. 511 S. 7th St.—mentioned above—has it leased at $16 per month, and as a number of white girls in her service of sin will not associate with "nigger" girls she has this house filled entirely with white women for the accommodation of black men.

No. 721 St. Mary Street is a drinking saloon in the first floor, with eight white and four black girls living in lechery in the rooms above.

No. 735 St. Mary Street is another benzine or aque-fortis, saloon kept by Mrs. Cassidy and a grown-up son; this place is within 40 feet of the police station house, and here we found 8 white women, six of whom claimed to be servant girls, and doubtless they were, spending their last week's wages for benzine whiskey. Just as we were leaving, one of the women began begging piteously to be taken away, a blow from some one in authority quieted her, and by the time we could make our way back to the room all was quiet as death.

No. 708 Cullin Street is a very low place, with four white and three black girls bloated with rum, and nearly blind from lewdness, and to whom death would be Heaven's kindest blessing.

The filthiest place we visited was No. 516 S. Seventh Street, which is a tavern and a gambling saloon of the lowest order. The bar is run by a very pretty Irish girl, said to be mistress of a married policeman; the room in the rear of it is used for gambling, and directly back of this was once the entrance to the cellar, but the stairs having been burned, the cellar is now used as a receptacle for human excrement.

No. 642 St. Mary Street has the appearance of a stable, and really is so far as the ground floor is concerned; the one horse stabled there is the only decent animal in the building; directly above him are two small rooms occupied by "Tillie" Boroughs, a white woman with her three white, and one black courtezans. Above these two rooms are two others occupied by a dirty negro wench and three white girls.

No. 622 St. Mary Street is the lowest hole I ever witnessed; it is kept by an Irishman, and is a sort of an eating house. Here we found a woman making soup out of what are called melts of the cow and sheep plucks. A quart bowl of this soup, with a dirty bone and a few potatoes in it, is sold for two cents, half famished Irishwoman were eagerly devouring it; there were no black girls in this place; evidently it was too low and too filthy for a black girl to enter. In this low hole we found a servant girl who stated she resided with a leading whole sale druggist; directly outside were three or four young cracksmen, and it is not improbable that this very servant girl will some night let the young thieves into her master's house to rob him.

At No. 617 Mary Street a shanty kept by James Hutts we found ten white Irishwomen in the house and yard, most of them were drunk. One drunken woman was lying in the yard where rotten bread, decaying vegetables and sick chickens were thickly strewed around her.

I will give a single instance of the enormity of the sins practiced in this spot of abominations. Two weeks ago a well developed white child, not quite 14 years of age, was decoyed into one of these pest places; for two days she was the helpless victim of brutal outrage: death seemed visible in her countenance and to save her life, or perhaps the cost of burial, she was removed to the almshouse hospital of the county; the total prostration of that child's nervous system during those two days of more than mortal agony brought on St. Vitus' dance from which the little girl will never recover. The most shameful part of this story is that the white parents of this child refuse to prosecute the black wretches who perpetrated the horrible crime. I am of opinion that the agony of the doomed in hell is bliss in comparison with the mental torments this poor child must bear until she finds relief only in death. The foregoing is not a pleasant picture for the pure minds of my many country readers to contemplate. If it has any merit it is to be found in its truthfulness in depicting what I saw; what I did not see is a thousand fold more terrible and offensive in its loathsome reality. If by the warning given, the unsuspecting man from the country is led to avoid this dangerous place, the sickening story shall not have been in vain made public

It is rumored here that Senator Carpenter of Wisconsin is anxious for the President to call a special session of Congress about the first of October, ostensibly for the purpose of regulating affairs in the South but really with the view of repealing the Poland press-gag law.

——The store of Mr. Stine at Pleasant Gap was destroyed by fire, early yesterday morning. The building was undobtedly set on fire by some unknown party. The store also contained the Post office which was completely destroyed. Very little was saved from the ruin as the flames were well under headway when they were discovered. Insured for $2.000.

——The Democratic, Congressional, Judicial and Senatorial conferees will meet in Bellefonte, on the 25th of this month, to select figure heads.

——Bellefonte people were never so indignant as they were last week when they heard of James Smithers.

GOVERNOR Thomas E. Bramlette, manager of the Gift Concerts in aid of the Public Library Kentucky, of Louisville, in that State will do us the favor not to tempt us more with advertisements of that institution. The laws of the State forbid the publication of such advertisements, and do not discriminate between one of this kind, which is honest and for a good purpose, and shyster concerns. We know that some one will, on the 30th of November next, bag $250,000, and other smaller sums, and that the money will be promptly paid, as has been the case in the four proceeding ones; but the law will not allow us to publish their advertisements. Keep them away from us.

A CARD.

TO THE REPUBLICANS OF CENTRE CO.

Having sometime since allowed myself to come before you as a candidate for the office of District Attorney, and having been by urgent business compelled to be absent from the State for the last two months, in consequence whereof, I have not been able to give my own personal attention to the subject, I hereby withdraw my name from the contest, with many thanks to those who so kindly urged me to come forward, and pledging myself to support the regular nominees of the party.

I am most Respectfully,
JAMES T. HALE.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

EDITOR REPUBLICAN:—We wish to announce, through the columns of your paper, the name of Dr. J. M. Blair, of Unionville, as a candidate for the Assembly, subject to the rules of the Republican County Convention. MILESBURG.

We are authorized to announce the name of D. S. Keller, Esq., as a candidate for District Attorney, subject to decision of the Republican County Convention.

We are authorized to announce the name of John Boozer of Potter Township as a candidate for assembly.

MR. EDITOR.—It is with pleasure that we learn that George L. Zeigler, Esq., of Philipsburg, is named as a candidate for the Assembly. Knowing him to be a staunch and active Republican, a man of high repute and in every way competent to make a successful and able representative, we favor his nomination. His personal manner and address, and his sympathy for and interest in the various industrial and manufacturing interests in the county are such as to constitute him a very popular candidate. His nomination would not be paying too great deference to his claims of that part of the county, which heretofore has been left very much in the cold. We hope the Republican party when it meets in Convention the sixth of October next, will honor and strengthen itself, by nominating him for Assembly. CITIZENS OF LIBERTY.

FINANCE AND TRADE.

GOLD 109¾

From our city reports gold is gradually declining. It opened last week at 109¾ and closed at our quotations. Money is plenty in the chief cities and seeks investment at from 2@3 per cent on call, secured by government collaterals, while prime commercial paper commands 6@7 per cent. It is conceded that there is some improvement in the general trade of the cities, which has been brought about by a general reduction in prices. Breadstuffs are only moderately active, and are without material change in prices.

In the stock market, Pennsylvania Railroad shares have stiffened up considerably and are now 63¾, per cent. above par, and those who should know, predict much higher prices for the stock. The large decrease in the expenses of the company, the forthcoming of very flattering reports of the committee appointed by the stockholders to examine into the assetts of the road, the lopping off of outside interests, all point to an increased value.

This is rather a remarkable feature in this stock. One year ago it was quoted at 39@40, today is 63¾. Our Pennsvalley friends have reason to rejoice at this sudden turn in the price of Penn R. R. stock, which we have every reason to believe will stimulate that company to raise necessary funds at no distant day, which will bring about the early completion of the Lewisburg, Centre and Tyrone Railroad.

Grain and Flour Markets.

BELLEFONTE, Sept. 15, 1874.

The transactions in grain for the last week have been very limited. The town dealers only buying sufficient to supply home consumption. We quote

Philadelphia Market Report.

Monday, Sept. 14, 1874,

COTTON meets a limited demand at 16¼@17¼c for midling upland and New Orlands.

SEEDS—Cloverseed sells in a small way at 10@11c for new crop. Timothy ranges from $2 80 to $2.85 for large lots. Flaxseed commands $2.

BARK is held at $36,50@ ton for No. 1 Quercitron.

GROCERIES.—Coffee is steady for 16½@18c for Rio and 27c for Java. Molasses is scarce and is held at 43c. Raw Sugar is in fair demand, with sales at 1,100 hhds. Cuba at 8¼@8½c.

HAY AND STRAW.—During the past week 419 loads of Hay and 60 of Straw sold at the following prices:

Prime Timothy Hay	$1 00@1 20
Mixed	90@1 00
Straw	80@ 90

PROVISIONS are quiet; sales of Mess Pork at 24@24.50; Beef Hams $22@26; smoked hams at 15@16c. smoked sides at 13½@14c; smoked shoulders at 10½@10½c; pickled Hams at 14½@14½; pickled sides at 12½@13c, and salted shoulders at 8½@9½c. Lard is quoted at 14½@14¾.

PETROLEUM is worth 11½c for refined for September, and 8c for crude in barrels.

FLOUR.—There is less doing in Flour, and sales of the medium and low grades of new wheat families could only be made at a shade lower prices; sales of 200 bbls extra at $4,25; 200 bbls Western extra family at $4,75 100 bbls. Ohio do., new wheat, at $6; 300 bbls Southern Illinois do do. at $6,75; 100 bbls Pennsylvania do. do. at $5.87½; 100 bbls do. do., new wheat, at $7.35, and fancy lots at $7,75@8,75, Rye Flour is worth $5,50.

GRAIN.—Choice red and amber Wheat is in fair demand, but other kinds are neglected. Sales of 6,000 bushels red at $1,22a1,15, 8'000 bus amber at $1.15a1,78. Rye ranges from 95a97c. Corn is unsettled and prices are weak. Sales of 800 bus of yellow at 96c. and 800 bus Western mixed at 95c. Oats command full prices. Sales of 4,000 bus white at 64a68c, the former to arrive and 700 bus mixed at 66c.

SAVE YOUR DOCTOR'S BILL.—When Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry will CURE coughs, colds, bleeding at the lungs, and arrest the fell destroyer, Consumption, it does more than most physicians can do. The use of a single bottle costing one dollar, will statisfy the incredulous that they need look no further for the required aid.

THIS is just the season to get poisoned by the Poison Vine, therefore provide yourselves with a bottle of CARBOLATED COSMOLINE, and you will find it to allay the burning and itching almost immediately, and to eradicate the poison in a very short time. It never fails.

EDITOR'S TABLE.

—The Republic monthly, for September, opens with an ably written twelve page article on "Reconstruction, by a Southern Statesman." This is followed by twenty articles on the live questions of the day, including the White League organizations in the South and their fruits. It also contains the full text or synopsis of each of the Republican and Democratic Conventions held—twelve in number—up to date of issue. Published at Washington, D. C., at $2 a year. Back numbers and bound volumes supplied to order.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

SCHENCK'S PULMONIC TONIC SYRUP, FOR THE CURE OF CONSUMPTION, COUGHS AND COLDS.

The great virtue of this medicine is that it ripens the matter and throws it out of the system, purifies the blood, and thus effects a cure.

SCHENCK'S SEA WEED TONIC, FOR THE CURE OF DYSPEPSIA, INDIGESTION, &c.

The Tonic produces a healthy action of the stomach, creating an appetite, forming chyle and curing the most obstinate cases of Indigestion.

SCHENCK'S MANDRAKE PILLS, FOR THE CURE OF LIVER COMPLAINT, &c.

These pills are alterative, and produce a healthy action of the liver without the least danger, as they are free from calomel, and yet more efficacious in restoring a healthy action of the liver.

These remedies are a certain cure for Consumption, as the Pulmonic Syrup ripens the matter and purifies the blood. The Mandrake Pills act upon the liver, create healthy bile, and remove all diseases of the liver, often a cause of Consumption. The Sea Weed Tonic give tone and strength to the stomach, makes a good digestion, and enables the organs to form good blood; and thus creates a healthy circulation of healthy blood. The combined action of these medicines, as thus explained, will cure every case of Consumption, if taken in time, and the use of the medicines persevered in.

Dr. Schenck is professionally at his principal office, corner Sixth and Arch Sts., Philadelphia, every Monday, where all letters for advice must be addressed. Schenck's medicines for sale by all druggists. 34-5t

DYSPEPSIA! DYSPEPSIA! DYSPEPSIA!

Dyspepsia is the most perplexing of all human ailments. Its symptoms are almost infinite in their variety, and the forlorn and despondent victims of the disease often fancy themselves the prey, in turn, of every known malady, This is due, in part, to the close sympathy which exists between the stomach and the brain, and in part also to the fact that any disturbance of the digestive function necessarily disorders the liver, the bowls and the nervous system, and effects, to some extent, the quality of the blood.

E F. Kunkle's Bitter Wine of Iron a sure cure. This is not a new preparation, to be tried and found wanting; it has been prescribed daily for many years in the practice of eminent physicians with unparalleled success; it is not expected or intended to cure all the diseases to which the human family is subject, but is warranted to cure Dyspepsia in its most obstinate form. Kunkle's Bitter Wine of Iron never fails to cure. Symptoms of Dyspepsia are loss of appetile, wind and rising of the food, dryness of the mouth, heartburn, distension of the stomach and bowels, constipation headache, dizziness, sleeplessness and low spirits. Try the great remedy and be convinced of its merits. Get the genuine. Take only Kunkle's which is put only in $1 bottles. Depot, 259 North Ninth Street Philadelphia.

HAVE YOU TRIED
JURUBEBA?
ARE YOU
Weak, Nervous or Debilitated?

Are you so Languid that any exertion requires more of an effort than you feel capable of making!

Then try JURUBEBA, the wonderful tonic and invigorator, which acts so beneficially on the secretive organs as to impart vigor to all the vital forces.

It is no alcoholic appetizer, which stimulates for a short time, only to let the sufferer fall to a lower depth of misery, but it is a vegetable tonic acting directly on the liver and spleen.

It regulates the Bowels, quiets the nerves, and gives such a healthy tone to the whole system as to soon make the invalid feel like a new person.

Its operation is not violent, but is characterized by great gentleness; the patient experiences no sudden change, no marked results, but gradually his troubles

"Fold their tents, like the Arabs,
And silently steal away."

This is no new and untried discovery, but has been long used with wonderful remedial results, and is pronounced by the highest medical authorities, "the most powerful tonic and alternative known."

Ask your druggist for it.

"TELL IT ALL"
By Mrs. T. B. H. Stenhouse, for 25 years wife of a Mormon High Priest. With an introduction by HARRIET BEECHER STOWE. Two years ago the author wrote a pamphlet on Polygamy which excited the Mormon newspapers to sneeringly incite her to write a book and 'TELL IT ALL.' Eminent men and woman urged her to accept the challenge, and 'TELL IT ALL' is the result. It is the only book on this subject ever written by a REAL Mormon woman. 625 pp. superbly illustrated and bound. It outsells all other books three to one. It takes like wildfire. ☞ 100,000 will be sold. Agents, now is your opportunity. Our Descriptive pamphlet, terms, &c., sent free to all. Address, A. D. WORTHINGTON & CO., Hartford, Conn. 21-4t.

GOLDEN BOOK

OF THE

BUSINESS FIRMS IN THE U.S.

AT THE

CENTENNIAL EXHIBITION 1876,

AND AFTERWARDS IN MEMORIAL HALL.

We are calling the attention of the Business Firms in the United States to the GOLDEN BOOK which is intended to be published and exhibited at the Centennial Exposition, to be held in Philadelphia, in the year 1876, and application has been made for it, thereafter to be placed in a CONSPICUOUS POSITION ON A HIGHLY ORNAMENTED STAND IN MEMORIAL HALL, as an enduring record of the living business firms in the United States of that year.

The accompanying sheet represents the size of the Book. There will be BUT ONE COPY OF THIS BOOK ISSUED, but divided into volumns, according to states. This Book will be printed on ASBESTOS PATENT FIBRE made expressly for this work, by J. S. Rosenthal, and which is INDESTRUCTIBLE BY FIRE, AND BOUND IN THE HIGHEST ART. The Covers will be of Metal, highly ornamented and heavily plated with gold. It will be emphatically a Memorial Book for future generations.

Terms, TWO DOLLARS PER SQUARE, paid at the time of selecting space. TERMS for a WHOLE PAGE will be ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS, 25 per cent to be paid on selecting pages or parts of pages, balance by note payable January 1, 1876. A half or quarter page on same terms. Cuts representing business with a short history of the Firms permitted. If parties wish their cards or buildings lithographed, we will do it on the best terms. (See sample on last sheet.) The Book will be arranged according od the various kinds of business, cassified and indexed.

Please select space—Agents will call for your order. CHARLES CALMAN, Proprietor, Publisher and Exhibitor.

Gossip from Honeoye, N. Y.

HONEOYE, N. Y., Aug. 10, 1874.

EDITOR SPIRIT: We hooked up Lady Gambee on the morning of June 24th, for a drive of sixty-five miles through the lake region of western New York, by the way of Canandaigua and Geneva, making Sheldrake, on the western shore of Cayuga Lake, our objective point. Our route lay through one of the finest and most attractive sections of this famous lake region—especially attractive at this season of the year, when all nature is teeming with fruit and flower. The object of our journey was to look over some Hambletonian stallions, the get of the old "Boss of Chester," which are to be found at the stables of Theodore Coleman, about a mile southwest of the village of Sheldrake. At the head of this establishment stands Seneca Chief, by Hambletonian out of Lady Jordan, by La Tourette's Young Bellfounder, he by La Tourette's Old Bellfounder, he by Imp. Bellfounded: grandam by Waldon's Messenger, he by Wildair, by Messenger. We found this horse a beautiful blood bay, with black points, two white hind feet, and star; standing 15 hands 3 inches in height, powerfully built, and showing great bone and muscular development, yet nicely finished in all his parts. We do not recollect of ever seeing so great a depth over the lungs and heart, so broad and muscular a back and loins, and such immense quarters, all combined in a horse of Seneca Chief's size. The square, open gait which he showee while moving up and down th street, convinced us that he will make a trotter, of no ordinary merit when he shall have been thoroughly schooled. He is very popular as a sire in the vicinity where he is owned, and among his get are a number of young stallions, who, in turn, are becoming popular. Among these we might mention Hyperion, owned by Van Name & Co., Governeur, St. Lawrence County, New York; the Wakeman colt, owned near Tecumseh, Michigan, of whom great things are expected in the way of speed, he having shown very fast time for one of his age; the Blake colt, owned near Cincinnati, and several others we might mention had we space.

Whether Seneca Chief will prove as successful a sire of trotters as Volunteer or Messenger Duroc is a problem which time alone can determine. His colts certainly promise well in this respect, and mostly have that size, style and color not surpassed by the get of any other stallion, which, to our mind, are three very important considerations, which should be well looked after by breeders.

In the next stall we found Cayuga Star, by Hambletonian, dam by American Star. This is an elegant blood bay horse, whose chief fault, like that of most horses of this popular cross, is a lack of size; he stands 15 hands 2 inches high, and is a horse of considerable substance and speed. Seneca Chief and dam were purchased by Mr. Coleman ten years ago in Orange County, when he was a suckling by her side. Cayuga Star was bred by Mr. Coleman, and was seven years old the past spring. His dam may now be seen among the brood mares of the establishment, and although aged and infirm, she shows the marked characteristics of the family to which she belongs.

Gondola, by Hambletonian, dam by American Star, who, by the way, is the dam of Ira H. Coleman's Mambrino Hambletonian, is another valuable brood mare. These, together with some half-dozen well-bred mares, and the young things of which we have no notes, comprise the establishment.

After taking horse matters to our heart's content, we shook hands with Mr. Coleman on the morning of the 25th, and started on our journey homeward, thinking Seneca Chief, take all-in-all, was the best stallion we ever had the pleasure of looking over.—Spirit of the Times.

Seneca Chief is the sire of John Harris' young sallion.

Flora's Nature — A Plea for Flowers.

"Why plead for them," their friends will ask, "when they plead so eloquently for themselves?" My plea is not to them, for they know all I would say, and more perhaps, but it is to the eminently practical people that I am talking just now. I have one of that class in my mind's eye, and he is just as good a man as ever was. He used to look over into the garden and watch me work among my plants, and he would say, "Well, I don't see how you are ever to get paid for all that digging."

I would laugh, and say, "Oh, I take my pay as I go along;" then he would turn on his heel and walk away, saying, "Well, I'd give more for a good hill of potatoes than for a whole lot of 'em." What do you think that same man did a few weeks ago? Why, he dug up my tulip beds for me, and fixed them splendidly, and without my asking, too. When my windows are brilliant with gay blossoms, he often stands outside and admires them, while they nod smilingly from the inside. He is fast being converted. In the bleak, cold weather, on entering the sitting-room, he says, "Now, those plants do make the room look a great deal pleasanter, don't they? and that hanging basket is beautiful!" "Yes," I say, "we have a little summer of our own here, with the plants, and baskets, and vines," and I glance up at Dickey, singing in his cage, conscious that he does his part toward our artificial summer.

Now, good farmer's wives and daughters, if there are any practical masculine members in your households, see if you can not convert them to your faith in flowers. It will make the gardening operations much easier next spring, as the deep digging is rather too hard for us—though "where there's a will, there's a way;" and a sprained sinew in my hand will testify that my will was better than my strength. Some one wisely says, "the cultivation of a garden is the purest of all earthly enjoyments." Flowers are messengers of God's love to us, and our hearts should be strengthened by them and made better. They should awaken in us tender thoughts and a love for the good and beautiful. Their cultivation is a source of great enjoyment, and tends to form the habit of order and neatness. Where you see plants in the window you will generally find a collection of good books on some shelf, or table near by, and everything neat and tasteful. A little garden where the plants are tended by one's own hands, gives far more delight than if it were on a grander scale, and cared for by a hired gardener; and you will get health and happiness for a return, and get it not semi-annually, but every day.

Say not, oh gentle housewife, that you have no time to attend to such things. Flowers are our friends, sent by the good Father to refine our natures, and gratify our higher tastes. Let us have more of them.

Fowls in the Horse Stable.

Fowls should never be permitted to have access to the horse stable, nor the fed room, nor the hay mow. Their rooms should be entirely separate from the stable, so that they may not always be ready to slip in whenever a door is opened; and that the vermin which infest poultry may not reach horses and cattle.

It is a well-known fact that fowls of all kinds frequently drop a very sordid, offensive, clammy, vicious odor; and when allowed to go on the hay mow, or the feeding room, or anywhere in the barn, they damage more fodder than we are wont to suppose. We would as soon allow fowls to live in the kitchen, and to hop on the dinner table while we are eating and to roost on our bedstead as to allow them to have free access to the horse stable and barn.

Some horses are always afraid of fowls; and when one enters the manger, or rack, the timid horses will immediately surrender their entire right, however hungry they may be, to these lawless marauders. And after they have scratched over the feed with their foul feet, and smeared a portion of it with their filthy dropping, a horse must be very hungry before he will eat his mess. Many a hungry horse has been deprived of his feeding of grain by a lot of bold, gallinaceous robbers that had learned when and where to fill their empty crops with the feed of a jaded horse. Let gates and bars exclude fowls and pigeons from the doors and windows of all horse stables.

Sheep Bells and Dogs.

Mr. Mathewson of Connecticut, furnishes the following statistics: Of fourteen flocks without bells, but one escaped; in five flocks with bells on each sheep no damage was done.—Mr. D. Fowler of Middlefield had a flock partially belled, and lost but one sheep, which strayed into another lot, was without a bell, and was killed. Mr. A. B. Coe bought a flock and put in a lot adjoining the former, and soon found two dogs on the forty-fifth sheep. The dogs belonged within a quarter of a mile, and passed Mr. Fowler's sheep in getting at Mr. Coe's flock. Dogs, after getting the taste of blood of unbelled sheep, may attack sheep with bells on; yet I believe if all sheep were belled, trouble from dogs would be very rare. The great difficulty has been to get bells which did not wear the strap off. Bells with shanks to penetrate the strap will wear it off in a few weeks. To be safe, every sheep and lamb should wear a bell.

Miscellaneous.

IF WE KNEW!

If we knew the baby fingers
Pressed against the window-pane
Would be cold and stiff to-morrow,—
Never trouble us again,—
Would the bright eyes of our darling
Catch the frown upon our brow?
Would the print of rosy fingers
Vex us then as they do now?

Ah! those little, ice-cold fingers,
How they point our memories back
To the hasty words and actions
Strewn along our backward track!
How their little hands remind us,
As in snowy graves they lie,
Not to scatter thorns—but roses,—
For our reaping, by and by!

Strange we never prize the music
Till the sweet-voiced bird has flown!
Strange that we should slight the violets
Till the lovely flowers are gone!
Strange that summer skies and sunshine
Never seemed one-half so fair
As when winter's snowy pinions
Shake the white down in the air!

THE HONEST MAN WHO PAYS.

A DITTY FOR THE TIMES.

There is one among the many,
Can you tell me where he stays?
He's an odd, old fashioned party,
Called the honest man who pays:
Yes—the honest man who pays
Every dollar he may owe,
Keeping up the good old ways
That so many scarcely know.

If he gives his word of promise
'Tis a bond as good as gold;
If he hold a post of honor,
Not a trust is ever sold
By the honest man who pays
Every debt he may incur,
Yielding each a just reward
And no grudging or demur.

And I'm told the rare old party
Lives—within his income won
By the fairest, squarest dealing
We see beneath the sun.
And the honest man who pays
Always holds it good and right,
For the rich to help the needy
When the times are tough and tight.

—Oscar H. Harpal.

Hunting the Antelope.

A party of my friends were starting down the Platte river to see their herds of cattle.

'Don't you want to go along with us?' said Calvin. 'We may get some antelope.'

The idea of riding, camping and story-telling and hunting for a week seemed charming just then, so, with blankets and rifle, I joined the party.

In an hour we came in sight of the river, of which some traveler has said, 'It is navigable only for a shingle," so sandy is its bed and so changing its currents. All day we followed the river bottom, now near the water, now a mile away from it. In the "ox-bows," or bends of the river, the grass was growing abundantly, and thousands and tens of thousands of sleek kine were feeding there.

Near the high lands, we saw great numbers of prairie dogs and little owls, living in the same holes. The dogs wagged their tails, and, barking with great energy, ran into their houses; the owls, old and young, toddled in, too, when we approached.

Toward evening we saw tall blue cranes alighting on the sand-bars. Flocks of ducks arose from the water and fled from the hawks. Jack-rabbits bounded queerly from our path, and a little way off, turned to see what we intended to do. We saw two wolves sneaking among the bluffs, but never an antelope.

The morning after we reached Dana's cattle-camp, we went out early among the sand-hills for antelopes.

We agreed to hunt independently, and during the next half-hour we saw plenty of game in the distance. After a time, Dana and I met. Carelessly ascending a little sand-hill, we started up a lonely buck. We so quickly sank upon the ground that the animal had only a glimpse of us, and after a sharp run, turned to satisfy its ever-eager curiosity as to what we were. My companion passed his red handkerchief to me.

'Wave that,' he whispered, 'on the end of your rifle. We'll try the Indian game on him. Easy! Wave it easy.'

Slowly I waved the flag to and fro, just in the creature's sight, while Dana settled his body at full length upon the sand, and rested his Winchester rifle on an unoccupied ant-hill.

The antelope now advanced a few steps, retreated turned and looked again. As we presented the same appearance, he became as curious concerning us as Blue Beard's wife about the forbidden room. Several times we thought he had seen enough of us, and was off. But no; his intense curiosity forced him nearer and nearer. Unused to hunting as I was, I became much excited. Had that antelope been an elephant, I don't believe I could have hit it. I had what old hunters call "buck fever." Suddenly the buck exposed his side to us. Crack! went Dana's rifle and over went the antelope.

We saw a herder on his pony, not far away, and beckoned him to come near. Dana knew him, and asked him to pack our game to camp. But no sooner had we placed it behind the saddle, than the pony reared and plunged until he had dislodged his burden. So we cut off the haunches, and making pack-horses of ourselves, took them to camp.

In the month of June it is not a hard matter to capture young antelopes. They are then so frail and tender that a man on horseback soon overtakes them. They are then taught to take milk from a bottle, and soon become very tame. We saw several so tame that they would come at call. We passed a turf cabin where there were five of these pretty pets, all with ribbons about the neck, and one, a graceful doe, with a cherry-colored ribbon tied about the tail.—Oliver Howard, in St. Nicholas for September.

A Strange Story.

Every day at one of the Recorders' Courts, in New Orleans, is to be found an elderly lady, neatly, even elegantly dressed, apparently watching with intense interest each trial as it is called, and when the court has adjourned, quietly moving away with the crowd. She has a painful and singular history. Childless and alone in the world, she was once the centre of a happy family circle; but a series of misfortunes came and left her hopeless and aimless.

The epidemic of 1855 deprived her of her husband and two children. Of her remaining sons, one was killed in the army, and the other, about a year since was arraigned before this same court for murder. Before this awful shock the mother's reason had reeled and left her a harmless maniac. Since then she each day imagines her son on trial and watches there for his coming. Day after day she prosecutes in the court-room her tireless watch. Disappointment never affects her, for she thinks she will see him to-morrow. Those who have charge of her gratify the harmless delusion, and thus morning and evening she is found at her post, influenced by an affection that defies the light and wreck of reason.

Repeated Marrying.

It is generally considered a notable circumstance for a man or woman to have been married two or three times; but this number would not have been thought worth speaking of in the olden time. St. Jerome mentions a widow that married her twenty-second husband; and he, in turn, had already wedded twenty wives—an experienced couple, surely! A Florentine woman named Elizabeth Masi had seven husbands, all of whom she outlived. When on her death-bed, at the age of eighty, she recalled the good and bad traits in her several spouses, and having impartially weighed them in the balance, singled out the fifth spouse as her favorite and desired that her remains might rest near his. The death of a soldier is recorded who had had five wives, the last one being previously married four times. The chronicle naively adds. 'This soldier was much attached to the married state.' There is another account of a man who had been married four times, and lived to the age of one hundred years. When he died, twenty-three children wept for their loss, some of whom were children of three-score years and over.

MEDICAL.

CHEROKEE REMEDY.

THE GREAT INDIAN DIURETIC.
INFINITELY SUPERIOR TO BUCHU.

Nine tenths of the human family suffer, directly or indirectly, at one time or other, from diseases or irregularities of the generative system, while the victims of indiscretion, and of quack treatment, are comparatively numerous.

The idea that patients cannot treat themselves successfully in these cases, has long ago been exploded. A good and reliable medicine, prepared by an experienced physician, from the original Indian Recipe, that is guaranteed to effect a can be as safely relied upon as the prescription of the most skillful practitioner. Such a medicine is the celebrated

CHEROKEE REMEDY.

Full directions accompany each bottle, and if they are carefully followed, a quick and permanent cure is guarranteed. Price $2.00 per bottle.

THE CHEROKEE INJECTION, should always be used in conjunction with the Remedy for both incipient and obstinate cases of Gonorrhœa. Price $2.00 per bottle.

CHEROKEE CURE

for seminal weakness (spermatorrhœa), is a simple vegetable medicine that was used for many years in the practice of the physician who first gave the remedy to the public. It has effected cures that would scarcely be credited except on ocular evidence of the fact. Full directions, with pamphlet containing all particulars of symptoms, treatment, &c., accompany each bottle. Price $2.00 per bottle. Sold everywhere.

CHEROKEE PILLS.

These Pill are prepared expressly for the cure of those irregularities to which ladies are subject, and will be found safe, reliable and effectual, for the cure of Suppression, Green Sickness, Pain in the Back, Hysteria, Sick Headache, &c., &c. Price $1.00 per box.

Heimstreet's Hair Restorative,

OR INIMITABLE HAIR COLORING.

NOT A DYE.—Heimstreet's "Hair Coloring is not a Dye, and its operation is not by any chemical effect, but by a natural restoration of the glands, thus giving the hair the color it originally had.

NATURALNESS.—When the hair is dyed, its color is leaden hued and unnatural, but when restored by HEIMSTREET'S HAIR COLORING, its appearance is so perfectly natural that no one can detect the use of any Restorative.

STAINLESS. — While the Restorative acts promptly on the hair, it leaves no stain or mark whatever on the skin. It is composed of ingredients that form a perfect dressing as well as a coloring, so that no oils, &c., are necessary.

THIS MOST EFFECTIVE of all the Hair Restorers is for sale by all druggists at 50 cents and $1.00 per bottle. Numerous certificates from those who have used it are in the possession of the proprietors.

PARK'S BALSAM OR WILD CHERRY AND TAR.

BALSAM.—Nothing is more soothing to the irritated membranes than the pure BALSAMS of which this medicine is composed.

WILD CHERRY.—The true bark of Wild Cherry is an unfailing specific for all throat and pectorial diseases.

TAR.—The wonderful healing properties of Tar when united with the other ingredients, render PARK'S BALSAM the most efficient Cough Medicine ever offered to the public.

CONSUMPTION. — The many cases of Consumption that have been cured justify us in the assertion that it is the very best medicine for that disease ever discovered.

CERTIFICATES OF CURES.

STEPHEN FISK, of New York, says his daughter had consumption, and terbucles had formed in her lungs. He was induced to try Park's Balsam, which effected a speedy cure.

T. EDWARD FLEET, of Brooklyn says, I think it is the best medicine for affections of the lungs I ever used.

G. S. FANCHER, of New York says, I feel fully persuaded that Park's Balsam has saved my life.

We have in our possession hundreds of certificates from others, and all of the same cheering import. Price 50 cents and $1.00 per bottle. Sold by druggists and dealers everywhere.

EGYPTIAN
Rat and Vermin Destroyer

FOR EXTERMINATING RATS, MICE, WATER BUGS, ROUCHES, RED ANTS, &c.

STRENGTH.—When a Rat tastes the Egyptian Destroyer, his death warrant is signed, sure. It cannot fail to kill. It also creates great thirst, and the rat will search for water out of doors, and not die in his hole, to cause a stench that cannot be got out.

ATTRACTIVENESS.—Rats are the shrewdest of vermin. It is hard to get them to eat poison. An ingredient in the Egyption Destroyer is a perfect bait, and they are attracted rather than freightened be it. "Rats (not children) cry for it.

KEEPING SOFT.—People know how the ordinary Rat Pastes dry up and become useless, causing annoyance and loss. The Egyptian Destroyer is fully warranted to keep soft, fresh and effective in any climate for years.

SURE DEATH.—The Egyptian Destroyer kills every time. Hundreds of unsolicited testimonials are now in the hands of the proprietors, substantiating its great merits as the best preparation for destroying Vermin in the world. Be sure and ask for the "Egyptian," and take no other.

Put up in large glass bottles. Price, 25 cts. Sold by Druggists everywhere.

HOLLOWAY'S
Pills and Ointment

EVERY MAN HIS OWN PHYSICIAN.

THE GRAND PRINCIPLE that operates in these wonderful medicines is the power that they possess in purifying the turbid blood, and expelling corrupt humors from the system.

Both the ointment and Pills should be used in the following cases: Bunions, Burns, Chapped hands, Chilblains, Fistula, Gout, Limbago, Mercurial Eruptions, Piles, Rheumatism, Ring-Worms, Salt Rheums, Scalds, Skin Diseases, Swelled Glands, Sore Legs, Sore Breasts, Sore Heads, Sore Throats, Sores of all kinds, Sprains, Stiff Joints, Tetter, Ulcers, Venereal sores, Wounds of all kinds.

USE HOLLOWAY'S EXPECTORANT for the absolute cure of Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Hoarseness, Pains in the Chest, and all affections of the Pulminary nature.

CAUTION.

Be careful and see that each bottle has the Holloway and Co. trade mark on it.

MEDICAL.

Wright's Rejuvenating Elixer.

For the restoration of Nature's forces. It gives new life and vigor to the aged, and causes the blood of youth to course through the veins. It effectually cures Impotency, Palpitation of the Heart, Loss of Muscular Power, Low Spirits, Disorganization of the Generative Organs, and all the train of ills that follow in the path of the transgressor of Nature's laws. Price $2 per bottle.

It will be readily understood that in the brief space afforded by the advertising columns of a public print, it is impossible to give all particulars of the diseases that may be cured by the CHEROKEE MEDICINES. That they are destined to become immensely popular is plainly obvious in consequence of their

GREAT INTRINSIC MERIT.

The pamphlet and circulars that accompany the medicines give all the information which cannot be given here, and the remedies may be had of any respectable druggist.

ELAINE

AS AN ILLUMINATOR.

WHY IT IS THE SAFEST.

ELAINE will not explode while burning in a lamp, nor in any other way, as it does not contain any of the explosive compounds so frequently met with in the ordinary oil for illuminating. A lamp, filled with ELAINE, if upset or accidently broken, will not explode or burn. There is no position in which you can put a lamp filled with ELAINE, for common use, in which it will explode. As no other illuminator has such advantages of safety, ELAINE IS CERTAINLY THE SAFEST FAMILY ILLUMINATING OIL KNOWN.

——Thanksgiving day comes on Thursday this year!

——The fall styles of creditors and traveling agents show little change.

——Messrs. Bush & Yocum are Attorneys here for the Commercial Bureau of Pennsylvania.

——The weather has been excessively warm and ice has been exceedingly scarce during the past week.

——The funeral of the late venerable Judge Barnhart took place on Sunday last and was attended by a large concourse of people.

——A Bellefonte charmer had a row with her folks last evening because they refused her money enough to go to see the "Mirror of Ireland."

——The new school house for our colored people is rapidly approaching completion and will be ready for use about the first of October.

——A good deal of summer seems to have been reserved for September. The latter part of last week was as warm as the warmest days we have had.

——Asa Packer's income is $1,050,000.00 per year and it must keep the old gentleman busy to take care of that amount for his boarding and clothes.

——Governor Curtin left here on Monday evening to attend the meeting of the Northwestern Pennsylvania Fair Association at Erie when he will deliver the annual address.

——Since Hon. W. H. Armstrong left for Europe, the Williamsport people are becoming demoralized. Just to think, they had a bull-fight at Herdic's Park, on Saturday last.

——If this war of races don't soon stop in our midst we will have to send a requisition for some military. On three successive evening, last week there were dark and terrible conflicts.

——If the handwriting on the wall had been written on the system used by some of our correspondents, Daniel could never have translated, though he might have been considerably teckel-ed at it.

——A party in one of the evening fights last week, who had his nose bitten off, wrapped it up in a paper and sent it home to the family. The rest of his body is about worthless now, there being but little left.

——H. Yearick & Son are selling off the remainder of their groceries, queensware and crockery at greatly reduced prices for cash. They are replenishing their store with dry goods, notions, hats and caps, shoes, &c., which they will sell very low, and for cash only.

——Last evening the Mirror of Ireland and Bryan O'Lynn's Comedy Company appeared upon the stage of the Reynold's Opera House. We were not present but suppose the performance was creditable because the panorama has received high praise in places where it has been exhibited, for its faithful representations of the Emerald Isle.

——The Centre County Sabbath School Association will hold an Institute in Zion's Evangelical church, Churchville, on Friday afternoon and evening, Sept 18th. Arrangements made are such that those who attend may expect a profitable time. Come.

——Professor B. B. Else, whom we have not seen before for several years, was in town on Thursday and called to see us. He is looking well and is visiting friends in Milesburg. Mr. Else is recognized as one of the leading educators of the State. While acting president of Dickinson Seminary, he displayed rare qualities both as an instructor and disciplinarian and, placed that institution on a footing for increased usefulness and popularity.

——We bespeak a delightful time for the soldiery of Centre county to-morrow. Every arrangement has been made to render it a most enjoyable day. A number of destinguished military gentlemen from abroad are expected to be present. General Wm. H. Blair will deliver the annual oration, and, we are informed, that a grand parade will take place in the afternoon. We are sorry we cannot possibly be there. Although we staid with the women and children during the late struggle for national independence, yet an old soldier who had smelled powder on many a battle field kindly invited us to participate. The fact that we were never in the army may perhaps require some explanation. When our common country in the hour of her deadly peril called her sons from the anvil and the loom, we left the corn field and, before the long roll had ceased to beat, responded. With a heart filled with devotion for our native land with a soul beating responsive to the music of the union, and a mind prepared for any fate, we resolved not to be recreant to the trust reposed in American citizenship, or forgetful of the valor which we inherited from a chivalrous and warlike ancestry. We paused not to bid home and friends farewell, but with flashing eye and firm determined tread we left all that was near and dear to us, marched hastily to the recruiting office, and in bold but nervous hand placed our name on the muster roll, and was about to undergo a surgical examination when our paternal ancestor appeared upon the scene and calmly told the Lieutenant that we were too young and green for such business, that he scarcely ever allowed us to go so far from home by ourselves. Then we went home again, as mild and quiet as homeopathic medicine.

THE PHILIPSBURG POST OFFICE.—From the Journal we glean the following which explains itself: For the last eight years Geo. W. Daicy, an honorably discharged soldier, who lost a leg at Coal Harbor has been the postmaster at this place, and by a uniform spirit of accommodation and general good deportment won many friends during that time and held the confidence of the public, whose servant he was. But for some month past vague rumors of a grave nature, affecting his character, have been in circulation, and while they were repeated and varied from mouth to mouth, yet few were willing to believe them and the confidence of the many was still unshaken.— The first distinct charge of malfeasance was made about four weeks ago by Pomeroy's Democrat, in relation to a money order sent by a lady in Keylertown who had raised a club for that paper, when an account of the transaction was given in that paper and a complaint entered at Washington. The postmaster withheld all of the Democrats containing the article after he discovered what they contained, but enough has been distributed to give the matter publicity in the community, yet, the official denied every implication, and his friends believed him to be innocent. Following in the wake of this was a detective from the Department at Washington who came here, examined the books of the office and left without committing himself as to the actual state of affairs, and the postmaster affirmed that the examination was perfectly satisfactory to the agent and cleared him of all charges. This his friends also believed and congratulated him on his being able to prove the reports in circulation malicious slanders. But the agent appeared again in a few days, and with the postmaster's bondmen again went over the books, and demonstrated to them that there was an undoubted defalcation. This was on Thursday of last week, and it soon became known that it was positive he had embezzled funds of the department amounting in all to about $1,300 as far as ascertained, there being a deficiency of $550 in the Money Order department, and $780 in the general mail department. The detective agent left on Friday morning without moving in the matter and the postmaster remained in the office as usual, until Thursday, when the detective again appeared, and on the evening of that day upon his information before Justice Riddles the postmaster was arrested, charged only with embezzling $550 from the money order department of the Post Office, and bail to appear at the next United States Court to answer was accepted in the sum of $1,500. The other deficiency and graver charges which have been made the agent did not at this time incorporate into his charges before the Justice. The embezzlements appear to extend over a period of two or more years, and there is an undoubted feeling of surprise in the community mingled with a charitable feeling, which is freely expressed on all hands. The salary of the office is $1,200. The bondsmen are: in the mail department, Drs. G. F. Hooy and T. B. Potter and in the money order department, Messrs. D. W. Holt and Robt Lloyd. The office is now in the hands of the bondsmen until an appointment is made, Wm. H. Wagner officiating.

—Since the above was in type the ex-postmaster has been arrested charged with opening a registered letter and abstracting funds under circumstances and upon evidences that have effectually dispelled the sympathy previously felt for him. In default of bail a commitment was issued, and the officers who had him in custody would have taken him to Bellefonte this morning had he not escaped from them last night.

——Geyser water at F. Potts Green's drug store.

——Lock Haven is shaking with the ague, says the Clinton Republican.

——The Patrons of Husbandry of this county will have a grand pic-nic near Centre Hall, on the 24th of this month. All the grangers of the county will be represented.

——The society for the prevention of cruelty to animals has posted notices in different parts of the town, warning people to desist from abusing the brute creation.

——Henry Thompson, of Howard, writes us that the late Clintonville camp-meeting was a quiet, orderly gathering, and that much good was accomplished—for all of which, he and all interested should be thankful.

——The Watchman says that a couple of loads of dry wood will be taken at that office on subscription.

Wouldn't a couple of soup-bones or a few dried herrings do? Either would be more than worth the subscription to that miserable sheet.

——We have been requested to say that the late pleasant Sunday school picnic at Pleasant Gap, was not the Union School, but the Methodist Sunday School. The Watchman, last week called it the "Union" pic-nic which called forth the correction from the above parties.

——A bright little five-year-old was looking through a picture book, the other evening, when she suddenly paused, gazed eagerly into her mother's face, and, while there shone in her eyes the light of a wisdom beyond her years, she said (blamed if we haven't forgotten what she said.)

SERIOUS ACCIDENT.—On Tuesday of last week our friend, John H. Barnhart, of Spring township, was engaged in making new harrows, and when finishing one had raised one side of it about three and a half feet from the ground, placing a board under the outside beam to keep the harrow in an elevated position. While putting bolts through the beams, the prop instantly gave way and the harrow, being a heavy one, fell on Mr. B., driving one tooth almost entirely through his left foot. Since the accident, which happened on the first instant, Mr. Barnhart has been suffering very severely from the injury.—Watchman.

——The Grangers of Centre county have arranged to have a grand Union pic-nic on the 24th of this month, in that beautiful grove about three miles from Centre Hall. Our informant says that all the grangers in the county have been invited and the prospect is now that it will be the largest gathering of farmers that we have ever had at one time in the county. Every arrangement will be made for refreshments, care of horses and accommodations generally, that will be needed. Several bands of music have signified their intention to be present, and a number of speakers have been engaged. If there were no other motive that the farmers might have in organizing themselves into societies, it seems that these pleasant social gatherings would certainly be enough inducement.

The farmer is the hardest worked man in the country, anyway, and enjoys fewer holidays. From early spring through the long, heated days of Summer till the snows fall, he works from sun-up till dark, at the hardest kind of labor, without stopping for a single day of rest, excepting the Sabbath. There appears to be no time for social development or anything else except work. But the grangers are doing much good in bringing the farmers into closer relation with each other. The county pic-nic we anticipate will be a delightful affair. The crops of this season are all housed and the seed sown for next year, and we suppose that every granger will be glad to take a day's recreation.

——The following circular has been sent to every honorably discharged soldier and sailor in the county:—

DEAR SIR:—The Veteran Club of Centre Co. having been duly incorporated by the Court of Common Pleas of Centre county, is now a permanent institution. All who have ever served in the military or navy service of the United States, and have been honorably discharged therefrom, are entitled to membership. The first meeting of the Club, will be held at or near Milesburg, on Thursday, the 17th of September, A. D., 1874, at eleven o'clock A. M. The meeting will be in the nature of a basket pic-nic—each person bringing provisions for himself and such others as he may wish to share his rations with. Inasmuch, however, as this arrangement will secure a much larger quantity of provisions than will be needed, those living at a distance, and others who may not find it convenient should not stay away because of their inability to bring provisions with them.

You are invited to be present and participate in the social enjoyments of the day, and are entitled to bring with you such of your family and friends as you may wish. An address appropriate to the occasion will be delivered by Gen. W. H. Blair, and other exercises connected with the more complete organization of the Club will take place. It is intended to hold a meeting of this kind each year in some place in Centre county, so as to afford an opportunity, to those who shared so many common dangers, and formed so many endearing ties, of meeting together socially. Come and spend the day with your old comrades in arms.

Please inform all your comrades in your neighborhood of the meeting, and urge them to come, whether they have received printed invitations or not.

By order of the Executive Committee,

JAMES A. BEAVER, President.

D. S. KELLER, Sec'y.

——The Centre County Normal Institute closed on Thursday last after a session of ten weeks. We were not present at the closing exercises and no one has sent us a report and we are prepared to say but little about it. Mr. W. R. Bierly of the Williamsport Register delivered the reunion address which we doubt not was excellent.

Something over eighty students attended the institute. Now that the session has ended and the winter terms of school are about opening, they will have an opportunity to put into immediate practice the lessons in teaching they have lately had. Just here we propose to offer a few practical suggestions which, we think, are worthy the attention of all concerned:

So arrange as to avoid the necessity for an undue amount of study out of school hours. Teachers ought to teach the children, and not act merely as critics of what the children teach themselves, yet this is what generally is done now. A child has put upon it a series of studies,—too many for it to prepare to recite during school hours,—and nearly enough to occupy the school term in reciting alone. For the quality of those recitations the child is merited or demerited, the teacher merely listening to the recitation and determining the child's status. Hence the labor of study must be performed at night or in early morning. It is wrong. No child should engage in a given line of labor more than six hours per day. Recreation, diversion, play,—is as necessary for the child as learning. A sound body is as requisite to a powerful mind, as a rule; and childhood is the growing time. Teachers are apt to forget the body in their eagerness to advance the mind. Here they mistake. That child is sinned against who is compelled to study overmuch out of school hours. To avoid this it is necessary that the child should be taught. We do not mean that the teacher should do the child's work: but he can explain and illustrate every new step taken in study, whatever the subject, so that more than one half the amount of labor on the part of the child may be obviated. Teachers can, and it is their duty, to aid their students by suggesting, illustrating, teaching the lesson to be learned.

No child should be overburdened with studies. It is a problem how many studies a child may prosecute advantageously at one time. They differ in capacity—some being capable of getting along with more than others. It is a mistake to think that rapid progress may be made by having a multiplicity of studies. A child will learn more thoroughly, rapidly and healthfully by having a few studies, and going directly through with these, than by attempting to cram a little of everything in at one time. Nothing tends so much to confuse as multiplicity and frequent change; and if we would not have the child to receive a mere smattering of each study they undertake, it will be wise to confine them to a few branches that they can successfully manage, until those are fully comprehended. The shorter the school term, the fewer should be the number of studies for the child.

Be sure the child is made to understand the principles of each study, and the gist of each lesson. Every subject—whether grammar, arithmetic or the sciences—is based on certain well-established principles, the study and comprehension of which are usually hard to a child, and which if really understood, greatly aid in all subsequent studies of that particular subject. These must be explained, illustrated and made so clear and plain that the child can not help understanding them. This will save teacher and scholar much labor. If any particular lesson does not seem to be understood by the child, it should be helped to understand it. It does not benefit, but often discourages to scold and demerit a child; but it will not fail to do good to encourage it and to explain and bring down to its comprehension, the lesson in hand. It will particularly aid in understanding the next lesson.

Be especially considerate of the small children. We do not believe that, as a rule, the little ones should be kept in more than three or four hours per day. They need exercise, sunshine, and open air. All they can learn each day will be done while actually reciting to the teacher. They can be allowed frequent play spells and not suffer detriment in their studies.

We offer the above stated points as timely and important and commend them to all concerned, believing that if carried out they will have a good effect upon the schools of Centre County.

——An innocent daughter of the ould sod bought a box of matches at Miller's grocery store one day last week. The following afternoon she brought the box back, complaining that its contents were worthless. One of the clerks, a stout handsome fellow, by the way, opened the box, abstracted a match and ignited it on his trousers. Abstracted another and ignited it in the same manner with the same facility. "What is the matter with these matches?" asked the polite clerk "Fhats the mather yerself! D'ye 'spose ivery time I phant to shthrike a match that its mesilf that is to coom here and shthrike them on yer breetches?" They gave her a fresh box.

——Major James Hemphill, who has been residing in Erie since he left Bellefonte, is here on a visit among his friends. Major Hemphill has discovered a method by which iron may be converted into steel, and is at present busily engaged in introducing it throughout the iron regions of the state. He has made the subject, of manufacturing steel from ordinary iron a study for the last eighteen years and his experiments have resulted in the most successful and valuable invention. There can be no doubt about the fact that his discovery is all it claims to be. The best judges in the state have so decided. We congratulate the Major and hope he may live (many years) to enjoy the fruits of his genius.

——On the occasion of the inspection and review, on Tuesday of last week, of the Twelfth National Guards of Pennsylvania, at Williamsport, there was a fine display. Several companies of the regiment went into camp at Herdic's Park at six o'clock of the above day. At ten o'clock the eight companies were mustered in their respective places in the regimental line. This was the first time the regiment had ever been together and those who were present say that the various companies presented a very fine appearance. An hour later the review and inspection took place. His excellency Governor Hartranft, and Major General James A. Beaver, the Division Commander, with staff of each, rode upon the ground and reviewed the companies and inspected the arms, accoutrements and muster rolls. Dinner was served at the park immediately afterward. The regiment is composed of the following companies:

Williamsport Grays	Capt. W. M. Shaver.
Scholl Rifles	Capt. J. H. Spoler.
Covington Veterans	Capt. H. J. Marvin.
Taylor Guard	Capt. J. H. White.
Sanderson Guards	Lieut. Jack Robinson.
First National	Lieut. W. L. Pitts.
Charlestown Rangers	Capt. A. B. Horton.
Herdic Grays	J. A. Wetherill.

The following members of General Blair's staff were present: Assistant Adjutant General, Lieut. Colonel D. S. Keller; Assistant Quartermaster, Major Gardner; Pay Department, Major S. W. Starkweather. We learn that Governor Hartranft and General Beaver, were well pleased with the appearance, efficiency and excellent condition of the regiment.

AN ABDUCTED CHILD RESTORED.—News reaches us from Milesburg of a case of abduction which is in many respects similar to the Charlie Ross case.

Mr. James I. Lucas, living near Milesburg, lost his son nine years ago, and during that time had never heard a word from him and believed him to be dead, until he was restored to his family about ten days ago.

The particulars of the case are about these. In 1865 Mr. Lucas placed his son, then a mere child, in the family of a friend living in Huntingdon county, the family agreeing to raise and educate him, for which Mr. Lucas paid them $1.50 per week. At the time the child was stolen he was scarcely three years of age, at least he was not old enough to know his own name. The family with whom he lived had their residence along a thoroughfare that was considrablye traveled, and the child was taken from the yard in which he had been playing in the latter part of the summer of '65. When the family learned of the abduction, the most careful and vigorous search was made. The neighborhood was aroused, scores of self-constituted detectives scoured the country. For several weeks the work went on but not the least clue could be found. Even after sympathizing friends had given up the child as lost forever, the father and relations continued the search. At last when every effort was exhausted, they were forced to give up the search for the stolen child. Of course the fond father and mother trusted that in His own good time, the God who gave them the darling one, would restore him to them. They never lost an opportunity to make inquiry or to do their utmost to bring about a solution to the mysterious disappearance. About a month ago the father was accidentally placed in possession of information that resulted in the ultimate restoration of the now almost full grown boy. How or where he came upon this information, we are not informed. He however called upon Mr. John A. Daly of Howard and related to him the circumstance that had given rise to their hopes for the lad's recovery. Mr. Daly immediately undertook to trace the matter up, and succeeded so well that he started on Monday of last week to Blairsville, this state, in the vicinity of which place he heard the boy was living. After several days of search, he actually found the boy working on a farm. Further inquiry developed the fact that he was bound to a farmer under the name of Elmer E. McCormick. In conversation with him he found that he had no knowledge of his early childhood, that he believed the name he bore had been the only one he ever had. He had no knowledge of his abduction and had been told that his father and mother were both dead.

Mr. Daly had several undoubted proofs of his identity, one of them being an ugly scar on his right foot, the mark of a wound he received when he was two years old. Mr. Daly immediately instituted the necessary legal proceedings and in a few days, started homeward bringing with him the long lost son. Of the reception of the lad by the overjoyed father and mother, we have nothing to say; let the reader imagine the scene; but we do suggest that it would be an admirable scheme to get Mr. John A. Daly interested in the case of Charley Brewster Ross.

——Judge Mayer visited Bellefonte last Thursday and received the congratulations of his many friends on his safe return from Europe and his restoration to health and to his friends and associates. On Thursday afternoon he presided at an adjourned argument court. After the business had concluded Hon. James McManus arose and said, that on behalf of the bar of Centre County, he welcomed the Judge to their midst again. They were sorry when almost a year ago his failing health had demanded rest and freedom from official duties. When he determined on searching for health on the Continent, they parted from him with sorrow. Since he had been amongst them in a judicial capacity, the most friendly relations had existed between bench and bar. They were sorry to lose him and their best wishes and most earnest solicitations followed him. They were gratified that his health had been restored and that he was once more among them. The mutual feelings of respect and friendship he hoped would continue, and that it would never be necessary for him to leave them again on such a mission.

In reply Judge Mayer thanked Mr. McManus and the bar for their kindly words of welcome. His communication with them had always been of the most pleasant and satisfactory character. He remembered, with pleasure, when his physician had demanded that he should leave his duties, his home and friends and search in foreign lands for health that the Centre County bar had been the first to tender him formally their regrets at his departure and their solicitude for his recovery and safe return. He had visited many countries and had through the benefaction of a kind providence regained his health, he had carried with him rememberance of their kindly solicitations and was thankful to God for his restoration to health and friends.

——The Sunday school people of Unionville and vicinity, held a pick-nic on Saturday last. It was the largest of the kind that was ever known in that region.

——We saw Major Wilson carrying a small bottle of blue ink down Allegheny street, the other morning, and, an hour afterwards, we found that the liquid had been applied to those ornamental boxes around the three large trees in front of his residence. It was a happy thought and none but the Major could have given it birth.

——Another cow fell down the sixty-feet embankment in rear of the Presbyterian church, on Saturday, without sustaining any damage which is another recommendation for the healthfulness of Bellefonte.

——The town council has erected a new fence around the big spring and the reduction of vegetable matter and feathers, in the drinking water is perceptibly diminishing.

——There is a report going in town, that, since Lewis Haas has commenced to manufacture of beer again, the destillery is haunted.

——Last Saturday, the Jewish New Year, was appropriately observed in this place by the proper parties.

——Upon condition that he be allowed to exhibit Charley Ross, Barnum offers $50,000 for his recovery.

Centaur Liniment

There is no pain which the Centaur Liniment will not relieve, no swelling they will not subdue, and no lameness which they will not cure. This is strong language, but it is true. They have produced more cures of rheumatism, neuralgia, lock-jaw, palsy, sprains, swellings, caked-breasts scalds, burns, salt-rheum, earache, &c., &c., upon the huma frame, and of strains spavin, galls. &c., upon animals in one year than have all other pretended remedies since the world began. They are counter-irritant, all-healing pain reliever. Cripples throw away their crutches, the lame walk, poisonous bites are endered harmless, and the wounded are healed without a scar. The recipe is published around each bottle. They sell as no articles ever before sold, and they sell because they do just what they pretends to do. Those who now suffer from rheumatism, pain or swelling, deserve to suffer if they will not use Centaur Liniment. More than 1000 certificates of remarkable cures, including frozen limbs, chronic rheumatism, gout, running tumors, &c., have been received. We will send a circular containing certificates, the recipe, &c., gratis, to any one requesting it. One bottle of the yellow wrapper Centaur Liniment is worth one hundred dollars for spavined or sweenied horses and mules, or for screw-worm in sheep. Stock-owners—these liniments are worth your attention. No family should be without them. "White wrapper for family use;" Yellow wrapper for animals. Sold by all Druggists. 50 cents per bottle; large bottles $1 00. J. B. ROSE & Co., 52 Broadway, New York.

CASTORIA is more than a substitute for Castor Oil. It is the only safe article in existence which is certain to assimilate the food, regulate the bowels, cure wind-colic and produce natural sleep. It contains neither minerals, morphine or alcohol, and is pleasant to take. Children need not cry and mothers may rest.
